Long-Delayed Parking Garages Facing New Hurdle in Higher Interest Rates

The biggest single factor holding back parking garages may not be neighborhood protest or design haggling, but the climb in interest rates, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley told reporters Monday.

The interest the Borough would have to pay on bonds has been less than six percent and is now seven, the mayor said, adding that this also hurts Palmer Square, Inc., whose plans to expand the Square are closely linked to the economics of a parking garage. The consultants retained by Princeton University for economic feasibility studies ("Can we afford to do it?") are scheduled to meet this Friday with Borough Administrator Mark Gordon and Borough Engineer George Olexa.

Mr. Gordon's figures show that, if the 1978 rejected garage plan at $4.7 million with five and three-quarters percent interest had been adopted, the Borough would have paid out an average of $354,828 a year over a 25-year period. The proposed new $5.7 million garage project, at an estimated seven percent interest, would mean average annual payments of $483,444 over a 25-year period.

Density is another problem, Mayor Cawley continued. Plans for the Square and Central Business District are "slightly over" the zoning ordinances' floor-area ratio, he said. The FAR tells a developer how many square feet can be built on a given lot.

Fringe parking is another hurdle. The Chamber of Commerce will shortly survey employees asking, "If you couldn't park downtown, what would you prefer?" Meaning fringe parking, van pools, car pools, or whatever. The Gallup organization will handle the questionnaire.

The Playhouse, meanwhile, is back in the news (see page 5B). Acoustics aside — and apparently they could be made satisfactory — the mayor repeated his concern that there just wouldn't be enough programs to book into the theatre on a steady basis.

Also, he estimated McCarter Theatre's subsidies at $200,000 to $300,000 a year and expressed doubt that the community could find "more of the same" for the Playhouse.

Remodeled Township Buildings Needed Whether or Not Consolidation Passes

Township Committee passed one ordinance last Wednesday and introduced three more. Committee also spent considerable time discussing what its intentions had been, expressed or implied, when a bond ordinance was passed on October 3 for $435,000 to renovate Township Hall, the annex and Valley Road School for Township offices.

This last ordinance had come under discussion at a meeting on consolidation at the firehouse, with anti-consolidation forces using it as an example of increased Township indebtedness which Borough residents would have to share in if consolidation were to pass. Kate Litvak reported to Committee that Stanley Smoyer of the Joint Consolidation Commission had expressed his concern about the ordinance to her.

"I would be upset," Mrs. Litvak said, "if this bond

Suit Is Threatened If Consolidation Is Approved; Opposition's 'Paper' Is Termed Grossly Inaccurate

Nobody ever charged the consolidation campaign with undue tranquility, but its relative calm was broken this week by a pair of salvos.

• School board member Rosalind Frisch, who said she will sue if consolidation wins, called a press conference Monday and told reporters it is an "erroneous assumption" that the state's consolidation law supercedes Title 18-A, which governs school affairs.

The point, she said, is that the Joint Consolidation Study Commission recommends a seven-member school board instead of the present nine. Only the public, in referendum, can decide that number, Mrs. Frisch declared.

• Pro-consolidation workers, discovering a "white paper" circulating in the Borough, described it in another press conference as "scurrilous, full of half-truths, mis-statements, implications, statements out of context" and questions already answered in the consolidation report.

Mrs. Frisch said the school sub-committee of the Consolidation Study Commission "may not have had the most accurate advice." She presented copies of a letter in which Thomas P. Cook, former school board lawyer, advised that "the Consolidation Act evidently bypasses the procedures of Title 18-A in the case of a vote on consolidation."

She stated that she had herself read the applicable parts of Title 18-A, and that Mr. Cook was wrong. She was speaking only for herself, she explained, and was not authorized to speak for the school board.

Mrs. Frisch told reporters that she wanted members of the Consolidation Study Commission, the State Department of Community Affairs and the State Department of Education to determine ways the Study Commission report can be amended before the election, two weeks away.

"I want people to understand they are voting for something questionable," Mrs. Frisch declared.

"I don't agree with her," stated Nicholas van Dyck, chairman of the sub-committee on schools. "The state law on consolidation says a study commission is mandated to determine the kind of school district and the number of members on the board."

"We proceeded in accordance with legal counsel and advice," said William Seiden, co-chairman of the Study Commission. "We talked with the then-acting County Superintendent of Schools, kept the county informed, advised them to get legal advice, and we never heard adversely."

Asked why she had waited so long, Mrs. Frisch said she had only learned of the problem last week. She acknowledged that she had not read the report of the Consolidation Study Commission, but she said the board knew nothing of the school sub-committee report, "a surprise to us." Sub-committee work sessions were always public, Mr. van Dyck said.

According to board secretary William Evans, board members received on May 18 a copy of the preliminary report on schools, with recommendations to reduce the board to seven. On July 26, he said, board members were told the final report was on file in the board office.

"Nobody has asked for a copy of the report," he added.

Mrs. Frisch said that in her research during the last week, she has talked with Robert Boose, the county superintendent; "various attorneys," and staff of the Division of Controversies and Disputes in the state Department of Education. She added that she didn't think the Department of Community Affairs "has it clear."

"My concern that the law be upheld," she said, "causes me to request that a remedy be put into conformance with 18-A before voters go to the ballot November 6, so as to be assured that the consolidation plan is valid and cannot be overturned based on these errors."

She said on Monday that she had not yet decided whether she favored consolidation, but would vote against it without the assurances she named.

On Friday, Borough and Township residents supporting consolidation showed reporters a "white paper" called "Analysis and Evaluation Review: Impact of Consolidation on Borough Residents."

Although copies bore the legend, "Paid for by Alan Carrick," members of the group said they did not know who the author was. Questioned later, Mr. Carrick said the author was John Miller, and the text was the same as a "Neighborhood Representatives Fact Book," written as a guide for citizens campaigning against consolidation. Mr. Miller, who lives at 123 Patton Avenue, would not say whether he was the author.

"This scurrilous document falls just short of being a pack of lies," declared William H. Walker II, co-chairman of Borough citizens supporting consolidation. "It is full of half-truths, mis-statements, implications, statements out of context, and it raises questions already answered in the consolidation report."

For almost two hours, Mr. Walker; his co-chairman, Ingrid Reed; Township Co-chairmen Stanley C. Smoyer and Martha Hartmann and Jay Bleiman, a member of the Study Commission, went over the document point by point.

"The report answers all these police questions," Mr. Walker said. "Both chiefs feel they could have a better distribution of manpower with merger. And no police officer in uniform will ever, ever, turn the other way, wherever he is."

"Regarding savings, these people haven't done their home-work; the appendix show savings of slightly over $200,000. I was on that police sub-committee; we interviewed men on the force, both chiefs. Former Chief McCrohan was part of the unanimous report."

"Regarding garbage collection," Mr. Bleiman said, "It is flat-out wrong: there would be no dollar increase."

"Any increase in fire-protection equipment is based on rateables, as always," he continued. "Regarding fire protection for the Township, sooner or later the Township will wake up and realize it's paying two-thirds of the cost. So far as volunteer

Board Debates Consolidation Issue

"Respectfully," said school board attorney James McLaughlin at Tuesday night's meeting, he disagrees in some areas with his predecessor, Thomas P. Cook. Mr. McLaughlin said that in his opinion, where a new school district is to be formed, school law 18A dictates how members of the new board will be appointed. Although the schools sub-committee of the Consolidation Study Commission "clearly had authority" to recommend a seven-member board, Mr. McLaughlin said, the municipal consolidation act contains a key phrase: "in accordance with the pertinent provisions of 18A."

"I personally feel it wasn't the Legislature's intent to repeal sections of the school law," he told the board. "You could argue it both ways. If 18A governs, then the new board after consolidation should be a nine-member board, named by the County Superintendent. Then, at the school board election, the public will determine the final number of members."

Nicholas Van Dyck, chairman of the schools sub-committee, said, "If what we did was illegal, it will be changed - in conference between Mr. McLaughlin and our attorney, Gordon Griffin. He said the sub-committee recommended seven members as more efficient than nine."

Much of the hour-long discussion of how consolidation might affect the board consisted of sharp thrusts and counter-thrusts involving Rosalind Frisch, who had researched the question of 18A procedure, and announced her findings Monday at a press conference. "That conference was unseemly," declared Hannah Fox. "She knew this would be discussed tonight; all the board could have benefitted from her work if she had presented her results properly."

Ann McGoldrick said she regretted that Mrs. Frisch had turned first to the press, and called her action a breach of courtesy and ethics.

"I wanted to give the Consolidation Commission every chance to remedy the situation, because I feel confident something can be worked out," Mrs. Frisch replied. "I have every right as a citizen to speak out."

Joseph P. Moore said that in his view, the 18A situation was "clearly an oversight," and he said it was unfair to attack Mrs. Frisch for raising the question.

The commission's co-chairman Margaret Broadwater, said: "I deplore the fact that this question was raised so late. It certainly was not our intention to step on the toes of the board or of school law."

When Winthrop Pike shuddered at the "spectacle" of board members against one another, Nancy Bruce said, from the audience, that it was better to fight that up put a front of good manners.

"We're not looking for decorum, but for a discussion of issues," she remarked.

fire-fighters are concerned, half live in the Borough, half in the Township or outside."

"They say the Township's use of sewage facilities and cost of services is much greater than the Borough's but sewer costs are charged on the basis of individual usage, no matter where you live."

Regarding the school board -- this was before Mrs. Frisch's charges -- the paper says the Borough would have no guarantee of representation.

"Nobody with experience in politics would believe that," Mrs. Reed remarked. "If you want to get people elected, you pick a balanced ticket. On Council, there are three people who live in the western section of the Borough. Does anyone doubt that they are interested in the rest of the Borough?"

Mr. Bleiman expressed particular anger with the statement that Township "dissatisfaction" with the sharing of joint agencies lay behind the consolidation move.

"That is an affront to the Commission," he stated. Mr. Bleiman also charged that the paper made "a deliberate attempt to confuse" regarding finances."

Figures Challenged. "They admit that, where local taxes are concerned, the increase will amount to pennies, but when it suits their purposes, they translate. They use the figure of $100,000. That's four pennies in terms of the tax rate!"

"They omit that part of the report that shows a slight bias in favor of the Borough; they "Don't forget," Mr. Bleiman added, "Charlie Cornforth, in the 1976 consolidation study, showed savings for both Borough and Township."

Mr. Cornforth is co-chairman of Citizens Against Consolidation.

"Their figures on Township growth are simply wrong," Mr. Bleiman said, "when they do use a correct figure -- a projected population of 30,000 by the year 2,000 -- they say it came from the Commission. Wrong. It is a Planning Board estimate, not the Commission making its own judgment."

"There is no guarantee," Mr. Walker commented, "that small is efficient."

"Deliberately Misleading." The parts on assets and liabilities are "a deliberate attempt to mislead and confuse," Mr. Bleiman charged. "The net debt service is half as much in the Borough as in the Township, but the Township has twice the rateables, so the costs are the same."

"Nelson van den Blink (co-chairman of Citizens Against Consolidation) has raised this twice," Mrs. Reed commented. "Each time it has been explained to her. Either she doesn't understand, or we must conclude she is deliberately saying the same thing over and over."

"Facts shouldn't be misrepresented," she said. "In making their decision about which way to vote, I hope people will be able to use information that is accurate."

Two Medical Center Employees File Complaints With NLRB about Penalties for Union Activity

Two members of the 16-member security staff at The Medical Center have filed complaints with the National Labor Relations Board charging that the Center has penalized them for labor activity. The guards are Lawrence Milner, 204 Loetscher Place, and Dennis M. Papara, 36 Bank Street.

In elections held at the Center September 7, security staff voted 8-4, with four abstentions, to be represented by the United Plant Guard Workers of America, Local 507; the hospital has appealed the election.

Mr. Milner and Mr. Papara said that the impetus to form the union came from a wage problem involving a new classification and salary guide. Joined by another guard, Clark Hutchinson, the two men went through the Center's own grievance procedures and won their case in June from executive vice-president Dennis W. Doody. In the new wage scale, security guards start at $4.72 an hour. They may move to a top of $5.46, depending on results of a six-month review.

The two employees charge that in executive session, the grievance committee can be steered the way the hospital wants it to go because the chairman is on the administrative staff. Mr. Milner reports that, when an employee representative saw a copy of the committee report, he said it did not reflect what the committee had discussed.

Regulation Violated? They also charge that, contrary to Center regulations, vice-president of professional services Walter Seligman sat on the grievance committee. Mr. Seligman is reported to have said, according to Mr. Milner, "We have the option of canning everyone," although Mr. Milner says this was not in the minutes.

Eight days later, Mr. Milner says, he and two other guards received "incident" reports — that is, reports critical of the performance of duties — although Mr. Milner says he had never had one in 18 months on the staff.

In an affidavit filed with the NLRB, Mr. Milner says that in mid-May, a colleague was told by the guards' immediate superior, Carl Lindgren, that "Larry was getting in trouble and could be fired."

Two women employees then complained that Mr. Milner had made advances, apparently of a sexual nature. Mr. Milner was suspended for three working days. One of the women withdrew her complaint. The other had, herself, been the subject of complaint by the guards five weeks before but, according to Mr. Milner, nothing was ever done.

Probation Ordered. In another "incident" reported July 9, Mr. Milner says, he was told he would be reimbursed, because charges could not be substantiated. However, enough other matters had come to light, the Center said, to justify a 90-day probationary period, removal to the day shift (with consequent loss of pay) and closer supervision.

On July 16, Mr. Milner again filed a grievance, this time because "enough other matters" were never spelled out. His superior, Theodore Salay, director of plant services, had stated that he had no documents relating to additional misconduct, apparently sexual, by Mr. Milner, and told the NLRB he was "made to add" remarks to his report and to put Mr. Milner on probation. Mr. Salay, about this time, went on medical leave with a heart problem and, according to Mr. Milner, was fired while on leave.

Mr. Papara's NLRB charge against the Center says he was not given a week-end assignment at Princeton House to fill a temporary vacancy because he had been active in promoting a union. Instead, he says, an orderly was given the assignment.

Mr. Doody and Mr. Seligman decline to make specific comments. "We don't want to argue a grievance in public," Mr. Doody said. "The NLRB is doing an in-depth investigation of all sides — let them decide. But the two employees did have a chance to go to an outside arbitrator, and they didn't do that.

"As for Mr. Milner's charges, well, he organized a union and he still works here, getting his benefits. These are only two disgruntled employees out of a staff of 1,200. I don't feel it's fair to all the rest to comment.

"In the majority of grievances, employees have come out ahead. We think we've taken care of the situation; if we haven't, the NLRB will act."

Starr and Adriance Discuss Issues Anew-- Latter Now Says He Favors Consolidation

"I will vote for consolidation," declared Township Republican candidate George Adriance this week. In an earlier interview this month, Mr. Adriance said he had not yet decided.

Mayor Josie Hall, actively campaigning for Mr. Adriance, is opposed to consolidation. The Democratic candidate, William Starr, announced his support of consolidation at the start of the campaign.

"I've read the consolidation report carefully and talked with many people," Mr. Adriance said. "Each town has a vital interest in the decisions made in the other: the CBD is of considerable interest in the Township; it must be strong and vital or we all lose. The Borough has a strong interest in what kind of development will take place in the Township."

"The report suggests the Township might go its own way, and that's not a scare tactic: it's conceivable it might."

Mr. Starr, who said again that he has always worked well with Mayor Hall, referred this week to her statements against consolidation.

"She reported receiving as many as 12 calls from residents in one week," Mr. Starr said. "If we reach the 30,000 population projected by the Planning Board for the year 2,000, my slide rule tells me that would mean slightly over three calls a day. As one who has been in public service, I consider this minor: we're moving in increments of smallness."

"Mayor Hall implied that a combined governing body wouldn't have time to work on both the 92-A bypass and the Central Business District,"

Mayorality at Stake

This is the fourth of five interviews with Borough and Township candidates.

In the Township, Republican George Adriance faces Democrat William Starr for the single available seat. The mayorality is at stake.

If Mr. Adriance wins, the Republican majority will continue on Township Committee and Josie Hall will remain as mayor. If Mr. Starr wins, the balance will shift and one of the Democrats on Committee -- David Blair, Kate Litvack or possibly Mr. Starr -- will become mayor.

Mr. Starr continued, "These are two perfect examples of the need for one government, not two. I obtained a copy of the Borough's Barton parking study and, from my analysis, could not see the need for an 800-car garage. I wrote the Planning Board chairman; my letter was subsequently picked up by Venturi and Rauch (Borough consultants) who recommended another study. In my opinion, an elected body with a broader base would have done a better job with this problem."

"Also, although we have a joint Planning Board, in final decisions it's the governing body that acts. Borough Council didn't, legally, have to go the Planning Board with the garages."

Strong Master Plan Needed. Mr. Adriance warned of "the pressures that are on us, in applications for building."

"Government can't penalize people who own land and want to develop it legally, and we must look at the best ways to respond to these pressures. We need a strong, adequate Master Plan, and I'm very much interested in working on one."

The Republican candidate, now on the Joint Environmental Commission, said: "I'm impressed with their work -- the quality of it and the attention they give it."

Mr. Starr said:

"I've been working on environmental things ever since I came to Princeton 20 years ago. I'm still a member of the Sewer Operating Committee and have been Township representative on the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. I pit my active background against that of my opponent: he was named by Mayor Hall to the Environmental Commission after last year's election, but he very seldom attends its meetings."

Turning to the financial aspects of government, Mr. Adriance said: "I favor things that put a lid on government spending. We have an obligation to find the most efficient ways, to choose priorities, make hard decisions."

"I would, however, like to see things we have no control over -- like fuel prices -- out from under the 'cap' on budgets. And at 10 to 15 percent inflation, how can we keep people on the payroll?"

"I tell people I've lived and worked here 20 years," Mr. Adriance remarked. "I have financial and community experience and a deep interest in the whole community."

"I'm not bothered that there are no passion-rousing issues in the Township," he said. "It would be bad if we had candidates at two extremes, and nobody in the middle."

Several Runners from This Area among 11,500 Who Start—and Finish—in New York Marathon

A sizeable delegation of runners from the Princeton area were among the 11,533 men and women who entered the New York Marathon Sunday in uncomfortably warm weather and finished the challenging race. Several were running their first marathon ever.

First among the men from this area seems to be Steve Hubbard of 90 Lewisville Road, Lawrenceville, who ran the 26 miles, 385 yards in two hours, 34 minutes. Mr. Hubbard works at Feet First in the Lawrence Shopping Center and reportedly has his eye on the Olympic trials.

Next was Bill Lauder of Hopewell whose time was reported to be 2:40. Dr. Charles Clark of 50 Valley Road, who is 44 and was competing in his fourth marathon, finished in 2:47, his best time in New York but second to his personal best last spring in the Boston Marathon, when he finished in 2:45.

Colie Donaldson of Quarry Drive, a history teacher and coach at Princeton Day School and an experienced marathon runner, ran the event in 2:51. Behind him was John Cook of Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction, a banker-commuter who turned in his best personal time of 2:55:15. It was Mr. Cook's eighth marathon, and third New York event.

"The Sun Was Murder!" Commenting on the size of the crowd at the start, Mr. Cook said the 14,000 entrants were comparable to the total population of the Borough — "It was like a small town on the move," he said. He also said it was a tough marathon because of the heat. "When that sun came out from under the clouds, it was murder!"

Running his first marathon was 37-year old Jim Bergman of Cherry Valley Road whose time was 2:55:55. This is quite an accomplishment for one who had been running only a year and who also still smokes. Mr. Bergman credits the encouragement from his 11-year old son Rob, who jumped into the last mile of the race to run with his father, in helping him finish.

Another commuter is John Achenbach of 111 Laurel Road, who finished in 2:57. This was Mr. Achenbach's second New York Marathon; he had run 2:55 in the Penn Relay event last spring. He and his wife were in charge of last June's 10-km Run for the Hospital Fete and they expect to do it again this year.

From Colorado, Steve Sander of Denver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Greta and Lothar Sander of Harris Road and a former Princeton resident, came east specifically for the race and finished in three hours flat. Steve Stovall of 32 Snowden Lane was timed in 3:05.

Next was Henderson Cleaves of 16 Willow Street who was disappointed in his time of 3:09. "It was just not the weather to run your best race," he said. His best is 2:58.

Joseph Perrine of Lawrence ran 3:11 and Bruce Smith of Kingston 3:22. Harold Goldberg, a sociologist-demographer with the Office of Population Research, had a time of 3:23. Armond Meyer of Hopewell ran 3:26 and Jay Regan of Harborton-Wertsville Road, Pennington, another first-timer, finished in 3:42.

The New York Marathon was a momentous event for two 35-year old mothers of three young children. Sallie Skeg of 7 Randall Road and Deedee Webster of Blawenburg Road, Hopewell, entered the race together. Mrs. Skeg, who is a paddle tennis player and an all-around athlete, began running six months ago at the prodding of her husband Jerry, who also wanted her to stop smoking.

Mrs. Webster is a ranked squash player whose youngest child is two and who trained hard for the event. They kept pace with each other until midway in the race when Mrs. Webster, faltering, urged her friend to go ahead. Mrs. Skeg says she began singing "100 Bottles of Beer on the Wall" at about the 20th mile to keep herself going, and the two crossed the finish line within two minutes of each other, Mrs. Skeg at 4:02, Mrs. Webster at 4:04. Neither wants to enter a marathon again. Mrs. Webster says, "We're all nuts," and Mrs. Skeg has vowed that if she ever smokes again she will have to run another marathon.

The best time for a woman in this area was clocked by Jill Case of Titusville who ran 3:13. Debby Matison, a secretary at RCA, finished in 3:58 and Carol Auster, 217B Marshall Street, in 4:27.

Chris and Susan Tarr, having run one marathon in 4½ and 5½ hours respectively, decided to run this one together. With hard training and Chris's encouragement, Susan came in at 4:34 and Chris, who experienced difficulty with the heat, at 4:36.

Another runner, who would not give her time, was Robin Gunther of 38 Adams Drive, a nurse at Princeton Medical Center. However, Mrs. Gunther, mother of two, had pneumonia three weeks ago and was running against her doctor's orders.

Two men for whom times were not available were Ron Switzer of Rosedale Road and Dave Hoch of Rocky Hill.

issue were to be used by either side to prejudice the outcome."

She proposed a resolution clarifying Committee's intentions to "review" the plans if Consolidation passed, but Mayor Josie Hall preferred to make the tapes of that meeting available for Mr. Smoyer and others to listen to if they wished. Minutes of that meeting were not available, because Township Committee customarily does not have minutes prepared until weeks or even months after the meeting in question.

Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, told Committee that the project was not on the list of capital expenditures given to the Joint Consolidation Commission. "We didn't have the figures, because the cost began to go up and up," he reminded Committee. "The initial plans did not envision Corner House and there was discussion of dropped ceilings or no dropped ceilings."

The Borough, however, did list $5 million for its proposed parking garage in the Central Business District. Mr. Nini said that the $435,000 bond ordinance was passed before election because "to have waited until afterward would have required the approval of other bodies."

Mayor Hall has issued a statement this week on the subject in which she made two points. "The office space would be needed to house municipal offices and joint agencies," in any case, regardless of the outcome of the vote on consolidation," she wrote, and "in the event consolidation is approved, the question of the allocation of space and other improvements in the building will be reviewed."

Dog License Fees Raised. The ordinance that was adopted was the one raising dog license fees to $7.50 and the cost of reclaiming a dog from the animal shelter to $20. The three ordinances introduced and up for public hearing on November 7 involve removing certain limitations on the Sunday sale of alcoholic beverages, clarifying regulations on open space in subdivisions and repealing an ordinance appropriating $2,846 for the traffic signal at Edgerstone Road and Stockton Street, which the state has agreed to pay.

Committee also agreed to hold a work session for the benefit of the Engineering Department and developers to discuss all manner of things pertaining to land use and building code regulations. One topic will be problems with detention basins — which are new in the Township and may not be fully understood by developers. Inspections, stop orders and other means of enforcing regulations are also likely to be on the agenda.

Hallowe'en Parade Set for Tuesday: Fire Engine, Bands, Prizes on Tap

Get into your costume and be at the library parking lot promptly at 5 next Tuesday afternoon. Joined by the Princeton University band, a bright red fire truck and - wow! - a tiger, you'll parade up Witherspoon Street, along Nassau, down Palmer Square to the Playhouse.

Inside the Playhouse will be the Princeton High School band and judges to pick the Hallowe'en costumes that are: scariest, most beautiful, most creative. Awards will be for paraders 6 years old and under, 7 through 11, and 11 years and up. First, second and third prizes and lots of ribbons for everybody.

Sponsoring Arts Council, with Recreation Department, Jaycees and Palmer Square, Inc., have lined up these judges: Mayors Robert W. Cawley and Josie Hall; children's librarian Dudley Carlson; Nagle Jackson, artistic director of McCarter Theatre; McCarter's costume lady, Marie Miller and actress Diane Crane.

If you're 'way over 11-Senior Citizens are cordially invited, and will be honored guests.

TENURE, YES

State Rules, Ralph Heyman, member of the history faculty at Princeton High School, has earned tenure status as an assistant superintendent of schools, according to a report by the hearing officer of the state's Office of Administrative Law, filed October 4.

Princeton's school board, with 18 days to file "an exception," has asked the hearing examiner for clarification. Mr. Heyman's case, regardless of board action, now goes to the Commissioner of Education who has 45 days to act.

Mr. Heyman became a staff assistant in the school system in March, 1971. He held administrative positions from July 1, 1973 through June 30, 1977, including two and one-half years as Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent. That title is not recognized by the state as one that earns tenure.

The board has denied that Mr. Heyman had tenure as anything except a teacher. Also, it had abolished the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent. The state says that Mr. Heyman performed the duties of an assistant superintendent, and has earned tenure status. The hearing officer further said that he is entitled to be placed on a preferred eligibility list, which means that if an appropriate job opened, he would be entitled to it.

No back pay is involved, and Mr. Heyman says the board did not act in bad faith.

BELLAMY SPEAKS

At McConnell Fundraiser. Assemblywoman Barbara McConnell's re-election campaign moved to the Princeton area Sunday with a fund-raiser and rally at the Elks Lodge in Blawenburg.

Gov. Brendan Byrne introduced New York City Council President Carol Bellamy as the keynote speaker. In her address Ms. Bellamy emphasized that committed and hardworking legislators like Ms. McConnell would be crucial to New Jersey and the northeastern United States in striving to meet the "Challenges of the 80's." Mercer County Freeholder Barbara Sigmund also spoke.

Ms. McConnell urged the electorate to consider her entire record and not be misled by "single issue" opposition groups. She said she was confident of re-election and emphasized that she was eager to serve Princeton and the other communities in her district for another term.

Ms. McConnell will be in the Princeton area again this Thursday at the League of Women Voters' Candidates Night to be held at 8 at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street.

BRUNCH PLANNED

For Democratic Freeholders. A Halloween brunch, entitled "Ghosts, Ghosts and Wits," will be held Sunday from 11:30-1:30 to raise money for the campaigns of Democratic Freeholder candidates Paul Sollami, Albert Driver and Barbara Sigmund. The brunch will be held in the former Evelyn College for Women, now the homes of Mr. & Mrs. Paul Sigmund and Mrs. Mark Brunswick, at 7 and 8 Evelyn Place.

Featured guests at the brunch will be Thomas ("Tommy the Cork") Corcoran, advisor to President Franklin D. Roosevelt; Rep. Lindy Boggs (D., La.); Arnold Roth, cartoonist, author and musician; and Bill Dwyer, Trentonian columnist.

Donation for the brunch is $10 per person. Reservations may be made by calling 586-9000 Monday-Friday or by sending a donation to the Campaign Fund of Sollami, Driver and Sigmund, c/o M.E. Fruscione, 380 Regina Avenue, Trenton, 08619.

BILL STARR

for Princeton Township Committee

Princeton needs Bill Starr on Township Committee.

- He has impressive skills in civil engineering, design and planning. And he has an outstanding record of achievement in the community.
- His work with the Joint Princeton Transportation Committee made public transportation a reality.
- He was the first to urge his fellow Sewer Authority members to drop an unsound and expensive sewer project for a better one, which we benefit from today.
- He saved taxpayers' money (and an historic bridge) by showing county authorities that Stony Brook Bridge could be restored. Then he found top-notch builders to get the job done.
- He is asked to consult on many projects by local and county planning agencies.
- Bill Starr follows through. He has the foresight and know-how to plan for the future.
- Bill Starr will do an outstanding job for the community as a member of Princeton Township Committee.

Bill Starr Has Earned Your Vote

Questions and Answers on Consolidation

Q. Who's going to pay for the change-over, if we consolidate?

A. State law provides $100,000 a year for two years, and the Department of Community Affairs says it has the money for Princeton in its budget.

Q. I'm afraid the Borough would be swallowed up, without representation, on a governing body of six, plus a mayor.

A. It's hard to believe that Borough residents really think Township residents are so much better they'd win every time! Seriously and surely, candidates with the high intelligence, integrity and dedication of Robert McChesney and Robert Cawley could win in the community at large.

Also, candidates only achieve a seat on a governing body because voters put them there. To be elected, a candidate living on Dodds Lane would have to campaign just as hard on Chestnut and Westcott, as on Dodds and Tee-Ar Place. Conversely, a candidate living on Pine would be eager for Walnut Lane votes.

Politicians are practical people. They put together slates with the broadest possible appeal: black-white, male-female, east-west, rich-not so rich, former Borough-former Township.

Of course, politicians worried about a shift in a narrow political base view things differently from voters themselves. Sometimes they try to convince voters that narrow political interests and voters' interests are the same, when often that's not so.

But clearly, elected public officials would be just as anxious about snow-removal on Maple as on Clearview. They'd better be, or they won't be invited back!

Q. They say it would be easier to plan for the future with consolidation, but we already have a Borough-Township planning board.

A. True. And you've noticed, of course, that Planning Board members almost never vote along municipal lines. (The vote against the 1978 parking garage was 9-1.)

The joint board will prepare the Master Plan. The public will comment on it in public hearings. But ordinances putting it into effect can only be passed by the governing body.

With a single Council, Princeton could make sure it gets the kind of Master Plan for the future that it really wants.

Q. I'm worried about deployment of police. Will the Borough be protected?

A. A police chief allocates officers where the problems are. A chief wouldn't take the number of square miles in a town, divide that by the number of officers on the force and spread officers over the entire community.

The police sub-committee for the Consolidation Study Commission included former Borough Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan and former Borough Police Commissioners Joseph P. Moore and William H. Walker II. The committee interviewed, among many others, both current chiefs.

In its report, the committee declared that both present chiefs believed merger would mean better distribution of officers and better management. The report, by the way, was unanimous. Mr. McCrohan later declared his opposition to consolidation generally, but he has never repudiated his vote as a member of the police sub-committee.

A clarification of last week's statement on police activity: under a new law, passed last year, a police officer has full power to make an arrest in any community for a crime committed in his presence. Officers may not, however, go into another town and make an arrest for a past offense.

CURL PLAN ENDORSED

By Trustee Vote. Princeton University's board of trustees has voted overwhelmingly to endorse "the objectives and the general directions for the further development of undergraduate residential life at Princeton" as outlined by the Committee on Undergraduate Residential Life (CURL) in its final report last June. The 37-1 vote came Friday at the trustees' annual fall meeting.

In a three-part resolution the board also directed university officials to engage in further discussions in order to develop specific recommendations consistent with the CURL report and to enable the trustees "to determine more fully the financial implications and feasibility of these proposals." The board directed its ad hoc committee on social alternatives to assist the university in developing these recommendations.

The Committee on Undergraduate Residential Life, appointed in February 1978 by Princeton president William G. Bowen, was composed of members of the faculty, administration and student body. Its purpose was "to study and make recommendations concerning the development of social and dining facilities that would have a direct bearing on the quality of undergraduate life." The committee was established as one part of a larger university-wide effort designed to survey Princeton's current and future needs, and to identify long-term planning objectives for the next decade.

DINNER PLANNED

By Montgomery AFS. The Montgomery Chapter of AFS (American Field Service) will hold its annual dinner on Friday, November 2, at 7 in the High School cafeteria.

To honor Maria Elisa Vera of Paraguay, this year's AFS exchange student at Montgomery High School, the dinner will have a South American theme, and the student AFS Club is planning special entertainment.

AFS sponsors student exchanges every year, giving boys and girls from Montgomery an opportunity to experience daily life in another country, as well as bringing a student here from overseas to attend the high school. This year Daniel Kramer of Rocky Hill, an MHS senior, is living in Kenya with an AFS family. In previous years, Montgomery youngsters have gone to Japan, Bolivia, Thailand, Italy, Finland and South Africa, and students from Brazil, Turkey, Spain and Italy have been enrolled in MHS.

The annual dinner serves as an opportunity for the community at large to meet the exchange student and at the same time contribute toward financing the AFS program. Tickets are $4.50 for adults, $3 for students, $2 for children, and may be purchased from any AFS board member or by calling Mrs. Vernie Deniston, the ticket chairman, 874-3207.

CAR IS MOVED

By Vandals. The car of a university student was moved during the weekend from its stall in the east side parking lot of Palmer Stadium.

R. Russell Mayer, 122 Little Hall, told police he had parked his car and locked it at 11 Sunday morning. When he returned the next morning, he discovered it had been entered and pushed up the curb onto the sidewalk. The contents of the glove compartment had been thrown around inside the car and the driver's floor mat had been torn.

Garage Door Damaged. Two panels and four windows of a garage door of a Dodds Lane home were damaged last week.

CANDIDATES FOR PRINCETON BOROUGH

Speak Out on Taxes/Services

Reelect CAWLEY

Inflation coupled with increased service costs required by higher levels of government (sewage systems, Sunshine Law) push up municipal expenses sharply. Maintaining local services is becoming increasingly difficult. As Mayor, I have:

- Gained grants for •several bicycle paths •Corner House drug rehabilitation •Senior Citizen Center •rejuvenation of Maple and Franklin Terrace Public Housing •Quarry Park land purchase and developments •sewer line infiltration study and engineering specs.

Organized state-wide lobby for phase in of change in regional school cost sharing.

I feel no new services or personnel should be added.

Elect GROVER

Generally speaking, people don't mind paying their fair share or a reasonable price for goods and services. However, when it comes to taxes, the very word causes many people, including me, to get their backs up. The basic reason for this is that the taxpayer sees clearly what he is paying but has difficulty identifying what he is receiving. This is particularly true of our county taxes that seem to go everywhere but to Princeton. Borough Council should be an aggressive watchdog over the county budget and intervene forcefully on Princeton's behalf when needed.

Reelect WOODBRIDGE

Good tax management means keeping taxes low and efficiency high.

In the last few years, the Borough Government has worked hard to keep taxes as low as possible. Each year public comment is solicited on major line items in the Borough budget. On occasion, we have even questioned county and school budgets - since they represent the two largest single items in a typical tax bill.

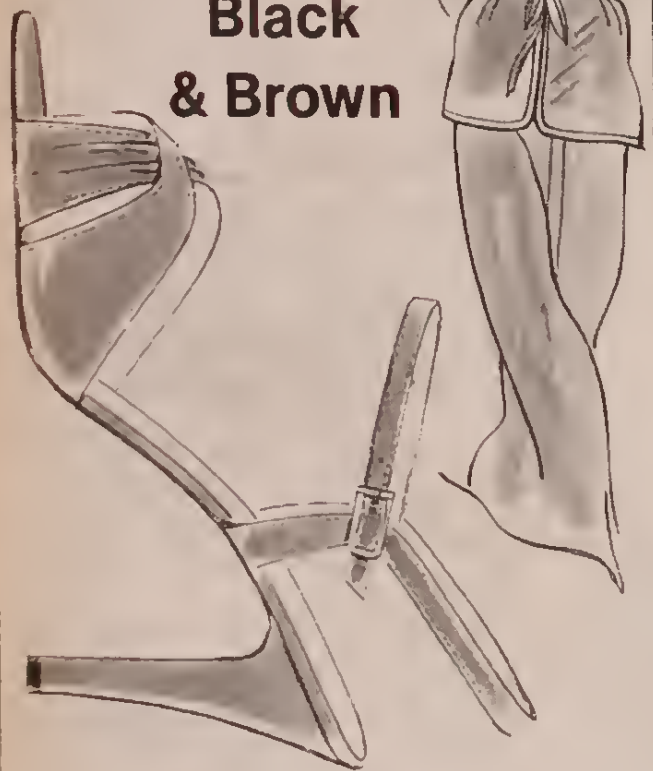

It is becoming harder and harder for low and middle income families to stay here. Taxes must continue to be controlled in order to maintain a healthy diversity of population.

THIS IS MY YEAR!

That's right — 1979 is being celebrated throughout the world as The Year of the Child.

In the Princeton area served by the United Way, this means you're a happy toddler in the Princeton Nursery School or the Hightstown Better Beginnings Child Development Center . . . a black pre-teen or teen playing and learning in Princeton's Paul Robeson Community Center.

It means there's a secure, happy place for you to go after school . . . the Princeton YM—YWCA or the Hightstown-East Windsor YMCA . . . somebody you can look up to, through the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Association...new friends and exciting new things to do in Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

If you're having trouble growing up, you can turn to the Community Guidance Center . . . if things aren't going so well at home with Mom and Dad, they can turn to the Family Service Agency of Princeton, Jewish Family Service or the Family Counseling Service of Somerset County.

And if things are really bad, there is care and help through the Child Abuse Program of the Catholic Welfare Bureau.

Maybe you're a young pregnant woman whose family can't help. You can go to the Florence Crittendon Home for the last three months of your pregnancy. And they'll help you after the baby is born, whether you decide to place it for adoption, or take care of it yourself.

If you do decide not to take care of the baby yourself, you know that the baby can find a good home with adopted parents through the Children's Home Society.

Do you have a brother or sister who is mentally handicapped? Classes for toddlers - and even younger! - will help your sister or brother get ready for the classes New Jersey now requires.

If somebody older in your family is handicapped mentally, there is warm support in the programs of The Association for the Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped. They can help find jobs, a place to live, a place to have some recreation.

It might be great-grandma who needs help. Tell her about the Homemaker Service, or those yummy hot meals the Red Cross provides for shut-ins.

And if you just don't know where to turn, there's the Council of Community Services, where you can find out the best place to go with your problem.

Give The United Way! Help all these young people and their families.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

(The following information was researched and written by members of the Regional Schools PTO Council, and the opinions expressed are not those of TOWN TOPICS.)
ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS: AN INTERNATIONAL FOCUS....

Princeton's elementary schools have had a natural focus this fall for activities supplementing and enriching the Three R's. It's the International year of the Child. During the last two weeks of October, classes from all four schools will be travelling to the N.J. State Auditorium in Trenton to see the "Taradiddle Tales," a collection of folk tales from around the world dramatized by the Children's Theatre Troupe of the Central Delaware Valley Junior League. The Junior League is offering the program as a way of making children aware of the similarities and differences of other cultures through their most accessible form, the folk tale, and, in addition, is underwriting half the cost of transportation to participating school districts. Some Princeton classes will see the plays during their second appearance in April.

The trip to Trenton will be a full day for the children, including lunch and a visit to one of the other N.J. State cultural facilities nearby. Some classes will attend a slide show and discussion on either pre-historic life or Indians of N.J. or will study an exhibition of rocks. Others will visit the Planetarium for its current show, and some 4th and 5th grade classes will be touring the State House.

RIVERSIDE SCHOOL will be carrying the theme of International Folklore forward into Book Week, Nov. 12-16, and will be introducing the younger children (K-3) to American folk music in an assembly with Art Meisel, formerly a semi-professional folk singer. Under the direction of Mrs. Giancola, the music teacher, students have been learning folk songs in class and are prepared to "sing-along" and to learn some new songs for Mr. Meisel. Accompaniment will be provided by several students playing rhythm instruments and by Mr. Meisel on the guitar, banjo and auto-harp.

Kindergartners and 1st graders in Mrs. Saldick's and Mrs. Brecht's classes at LITTLEBROOK encountered a more exotic form of cultural expression on the playground recently - Chinese sword dancing! The grandparents of Emily Wan and Brian Hsiang were visiting from Taiwan, and Mrs. Hsiang was delighted to demonstrate for the children the stylized sword dance which she performs every morning as a form of calisthenics.

AND THE WORLD OF NATURE....

All the emphasis is not on faraway places, however. Students find that there's a lot to study close at home, and fall in N.J. is an ideal time for a walk in the woods to discover what's happening there. Both 1st and 2nd grades went to Mercer County's Rosedale Park to take a look at animal habitats. Mr. Fairful's 4th graders will be giving Community Park North a close inspection - microscopic, in fact. They plan to bring back samples of pond water to examine in the classroom with Mr. Schneiderman, Science Support and Enrichment teacher, and Bernice Schwartz, author of Life in a Log and Food Chains and Ecosystems.

Mushrooms were the field singled out for special study by Miss Gibbs' 4th and 5th grade at JP. Dr. Curtis Callan visited to talk about his hobby, bringing along samples and a field guide book. A major focus of the discussion was how to differentiate between edible and poisonous varieties.

CP will be directing the children's attention to the world of nature throughout the year with its new Bird of the Month project. Putting the program in flight, an aviary, kindly provided by Ralph Walker of Fish N' Chirps of Rocky Hill, is being set up the school lobby. The children will take turns feeding their new neighbors, six budgies, and cleaning the cage for them.

JWS SIXTH GRADERS TO SERVE COMMUNITY

Sixth grade students in House 7 at the MIDDLE SCHOOL participated in the Shopping Center Garage Sale on October 13. Under the direction of teachers, Mr. Copeland, Mrs. Trotter and Mr. Smowton, the children collected, priced and sold used items as a joint math, social studies and fund-raising experience. The money will be used to finance special projects during the year. To repay the community for its support, the students of House 7 are making themselves available for service projects. They have already volunteered their services to the Red Cross, and invite organizations and members of the community to call the JWS office with suggestions for other areas where they could be of service.

WRITE-NOW AT PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL

PHS is one of three N.J. schools participating in a three-year grant awarded by the State Dept. of Education to explore useful easy to teach writing in the schools. Ms. Joan Goodman, teacher of the pilot course, spent five weeks in preparation this summer for the writing class and David Bellemore, who is incorporating the concept into his biology class, also spent five weeks this summer in preparation for the class.

Twenty-six sophomore students volunteered, and those participating were selected by lottery. An evaluation of the progress of these students will determine the future direction of the course. During the first year, the goal will be to collect materials for a book for teachers and students, and the writing process will be analyzed as to its applicability across the curriculum.

Ms. Goodman and the class have already established a supportive, purposeful writing group and are looking forward to the publication of their book.

Bleak Future for the Borough.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

While those favoring Consolidation rest their case on the conclusions of the bipartisan Study Commission plus the work of nearly one hundred subcommittee members from both Borough and Township, the opposition seems to be concentrating its efforts on two issues, an imagined loss of Borough "identity" and higher taxes after Consolidation.

In reply to these two issues, I would offer the following observations:

"Princeton" as we all know it, is bounded on the north by Cherry Valley Road, on the west by Province Line Road, on the south and east by Stony Brook and Carnegie Lake. Beyond these boundaries we think and speak of some other municipality.

Within these boundaries, the Borough resident enjoys, for example, the Green Acres land or Community Park recreational facilities in the Township, while the Township resident enjoys the shops of Palmer Square or the campus activities of Princeton University. Who thinks or cares where "the line" is except on Election Day? The rest of the year all of us enjoy one "Princeton" and no ID cards are needed to cross the "line."

With regard to the question of higher taxes after Consolidation, no sensible person would argue, in an inflationary world, that taxes will go down with or without Consolidation. The proper question is at what rate will taxes go up in the future? The cold hard fact for the Borough taxpayer is that the rate of increase will probably be unbearable unless he gets relief through Consolidation. This is true because the Borough has used up its financial surplus and has almost no land available on which to build new rateables. Future rateables in the Borough can only come from additional office buildings downtown or high-rise apartments.

As a former four-term mayor of the Borough, a resident for nearly 30 years, and as a Borough taxpayer, it is obvious to me that the Borough can no longer go it alone. I favor Consolidation and urge you to vote for it.

Cooperative Planning Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Some weeks ago I attended a meeting of Princeton Borough Council to listen to the discussion about funding the senior citizen's center at Miss Fine's Gym. As so often happens at Borough Council and Township Committee meetings, the debate focused on how the project was to be financed.

At one point in the meeting, Mayor Cawley asked me (as a member of Township Committee) whether the Township would participate in the project. I found nothing strange about this request. Although if I had been at a Lawrence, West Windsor or Hopewell governmental meeting, I would have been astonished if members of any of those governing bodies had asked me if Princeton Township would participate in one of their municipal projects. But it seemed quite natural to have such a request come from Princeton Borough, because the request arose out of recognition of a community need. Our senior citizens were asking for something.

If we were indeed two separate communities, then the Borough wouldn't have asked the Township. Borough Council would have funded the senior center or not, based on whether their community needed and could afford it. But the question was broader than that. It was, does the community need and can the community support this project?

The more I reflect on that evening, the more I am persuaded that this request by mayor and council for township participation in funding the senior citizens' center perfectly illustrates why consolidation has been accelerating for the past 15 years. Because we have recognized that the needs of the community as a whole, can only be met by using the resources of both the Borough and the Township. In other words, by using the combined and stronger tax base, we can provide services neither municipality can afford to finance by going it alone.

As a resident of Princeton for 13 years, six and a half as a Borough renter and six and a half as a Township homeowner, I am convinced by my experiences that the boundary is now an artificial one. The distinctions between Borough and Township which may have once been clear are now permanently blurred. The whole fabric of the town: social, economic and political has become so interwoven that there is no visible seam.

Those of us who favor consolidation of the government do not want to change the character of the town. We appreciate the quality of the fabric -- the diverse neighborhoods and the people in them. The town is richer for this diversity, the fabric stronger and the pattern more interesting. Joseph's coat is still to be envied.

But there is a vast difference between preserving the character of a community and preserving an outmoded governmental structure. The facts suggest that the community has recognized that a merged government is better and cheaper than two separate ones. I submit that a unified government has been aborning for at least 15 years. That's a long labor -- let's let it live!

Study Deserves Approval.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The purpose of this brief message is to convey my views on the issue of consolidation which is presently being considered by the citizens of the Borough and Township. It is my frank opinion that members of the Commission on Consolidation, all competent and dedicated individuals, have made a very careful and thorough evaluation of every aspect of the case and that their recommendations justify approval by both municipalities. Furthermore, I am convinced that the time has come for the residents of each community to consider themselves an integral part of one Princeton and move forward cooperatively toward becoming a more vital and viable entity.

Two is Better Than One.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am against consolidation because it has been my experience that two is better than one. A well-run Princeton Borough and a well-run Princeton Township are better than merging the two. Each is familiar with the changes that are coming and the residents of each should have a full voice in the control of those changes.

It has been said that it is inconvenient to deal with two governments. However, most of us go to only one Borough Hall or one Township Hall. We find this convenient.

The real inconvenience comes when a government expands into bigger departments under unfamiliar heads whose assistants include assistants to the assistants. With the multiplication of subdivisions the inquirer then finds himself in a corridor of doors to knock on and other floors to go up and down to.

I am against bigger and centralized units of government because they lead to frustration and useless effort. I urge everyone to vote for separate well-working local governments and against consolidation.

For Those "On the Fence."

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I live on Jefferson Road.

My neighbors' kitchen is in the Borough and their living room is in the Township.

Recently I called the Township engineering department about dangerous potholes in front of my house. Township roadworkers told me that it was the Borough's water gushing down the street that was causing the Township's potholes.

When there was a car accident at Franklin and Jefferson 100 feet away, I called the Borough police. When a strange cat was stuck on a limb of my backyard pear tree, I called the Township police.

Then, there is the leash law! Borough dogs must be leashed at all times, but Township dogs have to be home before 7 a.m. Perhaps Township dogs can tell time better than Borough dogs?

In this area Township houses look just like Borough houses. Township people walk and bicycle around just like Borough people. Are there any real differences that warrant keeping us separated so arbitrarily?

From one who is "on the line" to you who are "on the fence," -- please vote Yes for consolidation on November 6. End this divisiveness by voting for ONE Princeton.

anywhere, and unless we make the whole world one, community police officers are obviously going to run into boundaries.

And as to the argument re the unwieldiness of our existing combined boards and commissions—I can see that it would be easier to work with just one governmental unit, but I am strongly convinced it is better as we have it now. Let's keep two Princetons, working together.

R.D.5

A Myopic Preconception.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The concept of consolidation appeared so undeniably logical and feasible, so honestly progressive and right, its advantages indeed so obvious that I accepted the wisdom of the step as self-evident and volunteered directly for the Committee Possible Forms of Government. After reflecting more consciously, especially on those key elements that relate more to long-term desirability than to current "feasibility," I have become convinced that my preconception was myopic and only superficially defensible. Consolidation is against the interests of the entire Princeton community as well as the Borough entity.

While no problem or characteristic is wholly exclusive to either entity, there is one difference which emerges as critical: the Borough is a mature community; the Township has its greatest growth ahead of it. And as the Township grows, the risk become increasingly unacceptable that the specialized attention of the Borough to its particular problems, especially the extraordinary challenge of revitalizing a moribund central business district, will be diverted by the inexorable pressures of regulating expansion while achieving economies of scale.

The odds are already against us. How many mature, still vital business districts in the area come to mind? The potential impact on the quality of life in Princeton is so great that we must preserve every inch of leverage, every incentive to solve this vexing problem.

A successful CBD must increase its appeal well beyond the Princeton area, competing by differentiating itself from malls rather than challenging them (hopelessly, Township is by now an alas) as a shopping-center-substitute. The earnest efforts required to effect this metamorphosis are best assured by an undiluted incentive to preserve—better yet, increase—the tax value of the retail-commercial district as the most reasonable defense against escalating residential tax costs or a deteriorating level of municipal service.

Good sense demands that the needs and desires of the surrounding community have priority, perhaps deciding in-fluence. Nevertheless, a savings in time and money separate Borough would more assuredly retain the specialized focus and perspective of a fully established community, one oriented more toward preserving and adapting than guiding and containing. This continued concentration of attention could well yield the crucial increased margin of success over failure.

We absolutely must be among those very few communities in the nation who respond effectively to the changing societal factors that, despite massive private and governmental effort, have debased the centers of virtually every surrounding town and city. However well intentioned, it seems naive and shortsighted to minimize the risk with a conditioned "we can solve it better together" attitude.

The Study Commission affirmed the stimulation to the community attending cultural, economic, educational, ethnic, religious and social differences. Let's include "type of political entity" in that list of traditional differences and be grateful for its unexpected utility in the current context despite admittedly peculiar and nettlesome boundaries.

We can work toward rationalizing the arbitrary Borough boundary without forever weakening our ability best to marshal our resources to deal with the escalating challenges of a mature community.

League Backs Consolidation.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The non-partisan policy of the League of Women Voters remains today what it has been since its founding in 1920. "The League may take action on governmental measures and policies in the public interest. It shall not support or oppose any political party or candidate." This policy empowers the League, on a national, state or local level, to take political action on selected issues on which a position has been reached through study and member agreement.

The referendum for the consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township is such an issue. Using the report of the Joint Consolidation Commission of Princeton (an advisory group which finished its work in 1976) and the current report of the official Consolidation Study Commission, the League has reviewed its position on consolidation. In the light of present conditions, we reaffirm our long-standing support of consolidation.

We base our support on our perception of Princeton as one community made up of diverse neighborhoods and sections which balance and support each other. Our community is not too small and not too large. Comparisons of Princeton to larger places such as Trenton or New York City are not helpful.

The boundary line which competing by differentiating causes the Borough to be entirely encircled by the challenging them (hopelessly, Township is by now an artificial line and can create problems which divide our community. In a consolidated Princeton which would be the size of our present community, we would continue to rely on volunteer public servants and would not need full-time elected officials.

According to the Commission's report, taxpayers in neither the Borough nor the Township would be disadvantaged financially by consolidation. The Commission anticipates that savings in time and money would be realized by eliminating duplications.

Most important of all in our opinion, the Commission emphasizes that citizens in a consolidated municipality would be better served by many separate and joint agencies can present a confusing picture to the individual neighborhoods which are now cut by the Borough-Township line could better join together and express their opinions on issues which affect their neighborhoods. Voters in what is now the Borough would have a voice in the rate of growth and kind of development of the remaining open space. Voters in what is now the Township would have a say as to what happens in the Central Business District.

The League believes that access to government and the opportunity to influence it would be improved with consolidation. We foresee that more citizens would get involved in a positive way in local public life. We urge voters to approve the referendum on November 6.

RITA LUDLUM

Your Voice Is Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On November 6 I am planning to vote "yes" for the consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township.

As a resident of Princeton Borough for over 23 years, I am also interested in what occurs in the Township because ultimately it will affect me. For example: What is going to happen to the remaining undeveloped land?

More immediately, what is going to happen to the proposed Princeton by-pass? Borough residents have no legal voice in such decisions at present, yet those decisions will have an impact on us, for better or worse.

Conversely, if I were a Township resident, I would want a voice in what is going to happen to the central business district of the Borough. Those decisions will affect all of us.

I was a member of the library board when the library was located in the Bainbridge House. It was a time when plans were being laid for a new town library. The board labored through the tasks of getting community approval, site selection, architect selection, the selection of a library director and all the problems relating to a major building program. The job got done and, I believe, well.

However, I remember the "wheel-spinning" and frustrations which often occurred in our deliberations because we were dealing with two municipal governments. It seems to me that many other Princeton residents may have had similar experiences which could hardly be conducive to getting qualified persons to accept volunteer jobs.

Most of us live in Princeton because of what the community has to offer. I believe that we will have a far better opportunity to maintain, change and improve the quality of life here under one municipal government. I urge you to vote "yes".

CHESTER R. STROUP

We Think and Act as One.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week several of my Borough friends expressed their concern about consolidation. They fear that their Township neighbors "do not care" about the future of downtown Princeton. Recent experience indicates this is not so.

The history of the proposed 800-car garage is a good example. Those of us in the Borough who opposed this garage worked side-by-side with Township residents. (It might be remembered that it was our own Borough Council that first approved the garage, and the joint Planning Board that disapproved it, by a vote of 9-1.

Our Township friends had no "say" in Borough affairs but they were deeply concerned about our downtown. One petition we presented to Borough Council was signed by 200 Borough residents and 150 Township residents. I am sure I received as many phone calls of support and offers of help from Township residents as from Borough residents.

Believe me, they cared.

Another example of mutual concern for the downtown area can be seen in the "Save the Playhouse" movement. Regardless of how one feels about this issue, one must recognize that both Borough and Township residents are active in this group, working together because of their shared concern for this element of our downtown.

The point, then, is that it is simplistic and inaccurate to say that Township residents don't care about the downtown. We are one community. We commit ourselves to ideas and issues which affect our community regardless of which municipality we live in.

Consolidation will not change the way people in our community respond to ideas and issues. It will, however, make it easier for groups now artificially separated by municipal boundaries to work together for the good of their one community.

ANN MCGOLDRICK

A Timely Opportunity.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Federal economic researchers have recently presented to Congress estimates which foresee that Middle Eastern oil could cost as much as $86 per barrel in 1995 with the value of the dollar predicted for that year to be 60 percent of its present value. Even assuming this to be an extreme case, it should be obvious that Americans will experience a serious reduction in living standards.

The compounding of annual rates of inflation due to energy costs alone will have a crippling effect upon our economy and will threaten the financial stability of all levels of government. While we must despair of our higher levels of government which fail to give us fiscal leadership, we can put our local house in order and determine to maintain our integrity.

Prudence requires that the Princeton community grasp the timely opportunity to merge our resources, to reduce our overhead and to establish a single, direct channel from the people to one leadership group.

All of us have deep appreciation for the quality of service which successive governing bodies and municipal employees of the Borough and Township have provided and we are grateful for the contributions which they made over the years to the maintenance of the splendid environment which we enjoy today.

To keep the best of what we have known in the past through the fiscal uncertainties of the future, we will need a unity of purpose and direction which only a merger of the two municipalities can guarantee.

Boundary Lines Transcended.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the discussion of consolidation, it has been argued that in a unified Princeton the Borough will lose its representation on the Regional School Board and other regional bodies. In reality, this is not a valid concern.

During my six years on the School Board, the Board often divided on issues of policy. However, the dichotomy of Borough-Township was of little significance. As a school board member elected from the Borough, I found that issues of educational policy transcended boundary lines and that it is just as appropriate to respond to a Township parent's concerns as it is to those of a Borough parent.

During my tenure, efforts were made by the Board to assure that differing viewpoints and constituencies were heard. Similarly, committees are chosen so that Princeton's diverse communities are represented.

These citizen committee members are concerned with what is best for the children in the schools. What is "best" is determined by the merits of the issue and not by boundary lines.

I know that what I experienced as a school board member is similar to what other citizens have learned from their service on regional or joint boards: that significant issues—such as education, CBD development, and community growth—concern the total Princeton community and are not contained or defined by the lines on a street map.

In view of the broader community-wide perspective

ONE PRINCETON ONE GOVERNMENT

STILL
It makes sense!

"For 10 years, I've sat here watching the complexity and tax rate in government grow. Princeton would be better able to cope with this in the future as a combined municipality."

"Police and other agencies have problems on the Borough-Township borders."

"There is so much lost motion! When joint agencies have to deal with duplicate meetings and two different government bodies!"

"The public library and the recreation department could not be supported by either Borough or Township alone. Bigger is clearly better...."

"I can't believe that people living in what is now the Borough wouldn't run for office and be successful."

that citizens of the Borough and Township have generally taken toward important issues, and having reviewed the positive advantages of merging the two governments, my own decision is to support consolidation.

JOAN N. DOIG
12 College Road

Let's End Divisiveness.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

How long did it take to get agreement to build the new bridge over the branch of Harry's Brook on Snowden Lane? Two years? Three years? Of course Snowden Lane is the boundary there between Borough and Township, and the respective engineering departments were at loggerheads, each unwilling to balance interests on its side of the line with those on the other.

On the bicycle path from Johnson Park School to the Great Road, why does black-top end at that boundary between Borough and Township? Even though Borough children attend the school, the Borough hasn't surfaced its end of the path.

These are minor examples of the waste in time, effort and efficiency that two governments create where one could do the job. And do it better. Without calling for three meetings (one for the Borough, one for the Township, one joint) when joint action is proposed (assuming optimistically that differences can be accommodated in one joint meeting).

It is impossible to say whether these multi-meetings are harder on elected officials, staff or on those volunteers without whom our governments could not survive.

However, it is obvious that artificial separation of Princeton into two parts makes it twice as difficult to find qualified candidates for office.

Having lived in both parts of our town and having worked on projects affecting them jointly, I am convinced that consolidation will bring us better, more responsive government. Not more expensive, despite scare claims, because one town can't be bigger than the sum of its parts. A little less expensive, perhaps, because there must be savings from having to pay only one administrator, one police chief, one engineer and so forth.

That's why I hope people recognize the logic of consolidation and turn out to vote for it, so we can end divisiveness and get on with the unfinished business of the one town that is Princeton.

H. PHILIP MINIS
307 Edgerstone Road

Borough Cannot Go It Alone.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

When I first came to Princeton, I lived for more than ten years in the Borough. Then, seeking newer housing and a little more open space, I moved out to the Township, and there I will probably stay.

The path that I followed is the very common one of suburbanization -- a process that has affected Princeton Borough in much the same way that it has affected many other "inner cities." In the future, I have no doubt that the process will continue and perhaps even accelerate: there is simply more new housing, more open space, and more room to grow in the Township than there is in the fully-grown Borough.

The anti-Consolidation forces say that they oppose Consolidation because the average Borough resident is somewhat older, somewhat poorer, and somewhat more prone to be a renter than the average Township resident. If this claim is true, then I consider it one of the best arguments for Consolidation, because it means that as the years go by, the Borough will be less and less capable of supporting itself and its municipal services without the younger and perhaps more affluent Township.

As Borough people have moved into the Township, they have retained their ties with friends and family within the Borough, but have ceased to participate in the political and financial life of their former town. The one way to keep our great Princetonian family together is through Consolidation; otherwise, the Township will be severed from its past, and the Borough, even more sadly, will be severed from its future and, in some sense, from its own children.

Today, the two Princetons are about equal: the time to consolidate is now. I sincerely hope that all Princetonians will vote for Consolidation on November 6 so that our two towns may develop and prosper together as one.

A Vital Need for the Future.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am impressed by the letters on this page from writers who live along the archaic lines that divide Borough from Township. For they describe the good neighbors and the Princeton community problems that are found on both sides of the line.

The important boundary is the one that separates the Princeton community from the sprawling suburban developments springing up around us. The real Princeton is defined by community spirit and by vital institutions -- from our educational establishments to the smallest community volunteer groups. Princetonians have energetically deployed intelligence and good will in order to attain very high standards with limited resources. And they deserve the support and cooperation of an effective local government.

I do not believe that we want to degenerate into yet another gracious ghetto for the well-to-do, or to find that we have lost the political clout needed to guard the rights of our minorities.

Let us remain a forward-looking community that advances toward a distinguished future. And let us build the efficient little consolidated government that we need now and will increasingly need in the future.

"Sentimentality and Fear."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Using nostalgia, sentimentality and fear, a few Princeton Borough diehards have created controversy over a thoughtful citizen study proposing the union of our municipal government with our surrounding Township. They overlook the fact that the Borough is a consolidation of neighborhoods: Tree Streets, Jugtown, John-Witherspoon, Bank Street, Stanworth, Library Place, West End, etc.

The negative statements center around such items as "we have our firehouses, why pay for theirs; elected officers are more responsive in a small town; the Borough has no more open space and won't grow, why take on Township growing pains."

The firehouse issue was used negatively in an earlier vote on consolidation and again ignores the Township's contribution of money and people to the Borough's volunteer companies. The fear never stated is the possible demise of the firehouses as traditional and virtually exclusive Borough social centers that long resisted sexual and racial integration.

There are current financial limitations that restrict the purchase of firefighting equipment that would be eased in the larger united municipality along with probable addition of firehouses in new neighborhoods making our fire and disaster protection even stronger.

That the Borough won't grow because "open space" is used up is a myth found in the illogical sections of the Master Plan. How wrong it has proven to be! Fire destroys an old building and it is replaced by one large enough to add residential units. A vacated laundry is torn down and modern apartments erected.

The expression "small town" hasn't described the Borough since the merchants pooled funds and erected Nassau Hall as a home for College of New Jersey over 200 years ago. Colleges give extra qualities to social-cultural life and economic status not dreamed of in typical small American towns. Our campus community continues to with- of the Borough Council, draw from municipal affairs review its actions and views as the duo of Princetons tend on CBD to see how far out of to become bedrooms for step it is and how immobilized commuters and the business it is as a body by the arenas of non-residents.

The homespun nature of Borough government has flat cake, that's got to mean diminished with the departure the end of the governing body of hometown personalities to of the hole. On the other hand, be replaced by a professional if consolidation is defeated, and unionized corps. the Borough Council does not Likewise, Council no longer is made up of tradesmen and professionals (like Redding, Ilulit, Godfrey, Male, Berry) and University people (like Lester, Coyle, Colman, Sorenson). They seemed closer to the voters than the executives, researchers and housewives recently dominating our elected representatives -- with all due respect.

The human resources of the Borough's volunteer government are not meeting its needs. The Democrats couldn't muster a candidate to run for Mayor at primary time, but there was a write-in nomination. Consolidation would enlarge the pool of human resources, but vastly reduce the number of volunteers needed for both elective and appointive functions.

After all, there are many neighborhoods in the Borough and Township. They need only one government -- a consolidated Princeton!

DON EVANS
61 Palmer Square

The Disappearing Doughnut.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Several reasons I have for opposing consolidation of the Borough and The Township, in addition to the principle of smallness in government is better than bigness:

1. The movement to consolidate seems to have been brought about by the frustration of present and former office-holders and active politicians in both parties rather than any clearly definable benefits to citizens. By the elimination of one deliberative and administrative body, the only major change if one takes the Commission report at face value, they assume that policy making will occur more smoothly and administration will be made more efficient regardless of the nature of the decisions to be made.

In this they confuse government and administration. Government is responsible in this country to people, while administration is (supposedly) responsible to government. Officials are elected to deliberate, to represent, to judge issues, to find middle ground. When elected officials ask for sweeping changes to make their responsibilities easier, rather than for real benefits that all people can see and understand, I get uncomfortable.

2. It seems clear that consolidation will have one and only one visible result: the elimination of the Borough Council.

If anyone doubts the "desirability" of the removal

3. The "One Princeton" theme is a semantic trap; it confuses the map with territory and is the true emotional issue. The differing characteristics of the population and problems of the "borough" and the "township" have been pointed out many times. These are real; the map is artificial. By changing the map (consolidation) you don't change the realities, although some like to think they take on less importance.

Of course the people who live on contiguous town streets have difficulties but they do have established ways to settle grievances. If they don't succeed and feel strongly enough, they can organize and petition the Borough to extend its boundaries to include them, if the Township is willing to cede them. This seems more reasonable, if accommodation doesn't work, than to ask thousands of people to accept a large gamble on their future.

4. If sociological principles hold, and they are as dismal as their cousins, economic ones, property values in the area going out from the center of town in the middle term will decline as this area becomes the "inner city" of the new town. At present, this area is contained in size by the borough-township boundary, the university campus and by zoning-inspection regulations.

Can anyone guarantee that the new zoning-planning-inspection ordinances will succeed in preventing this decline where most other cities have not succeeded? If the Regional Planning board is an indicator of what is in store for "center city" when two essentially regional bodies are in authority, the future would look dim under consolidation.

ONE PRINCETON ONE GOVERNMENT

STILL
It makes sense!

Borough residents, consider this:

1. Our taxes have been going up.
2. Faster than ratables have been going up
3. While the surplus has been used up

What will you vote for in the future?

1. High rise apartments, office buildings with more parking problems, greater traffic congestion, OR
2. Reduced municipal services (less police and fire protection, less street maintenance) OR
3. High taxes for everyone, OR

Do you prefer to CONSOLIDATE NOW, and

1. Share constructively with the Township the planning, growth and ratables of the entire community?
2. Reap the benefits of an expanded tax base plus the bonus of more efficient services?

ACT NOW, before it is too late!

VOTE FOR CONSOLIDATION

BUS TRIP PLANNED

To Sagamore Hill. The Historical Society will sponsor a bus trip to Sagamore Hill in Oyster Bay, L.I., on Thursday, November 15.

Sagamore Hill, a rambling 22-room structure on a promontory overlooking Long Island Sound, was built for Theodore Roosevelt in 1885. It was there that Roosevelt was notified of his nomination as Governor of New York in 1898, as Vice-President in 1900, as President in 1904, and it was there that he died in 1919.

The cost of the trip is $20 per person, which includes transportation, admissions, lunch at the Milleridge Inn in Jericho, and a tax deductible contribution to the Historical Society. The bus will leave the Shopping Center at 9 and will return around 6:30. For reservations or more information, call the Historical Society at 158 Nassau Street, or call 921-6748.

OFFICERS NAMED

For Alcoholism Council. Officers and a new board of trustees have been elected by the Mercer Council on Alcoholism, now beginning its second year. The Council represents the merger of the Greater Princeton Council on Alcoholism, and other similar groups in the county.

The Council helps schools with alcohol-education programs, assists in the training of law enforcement officers, counsels with doctors on recognizing signs of alcohol abuse in patients who are treated for other ailments, and provides an Alcohol Helpline which gives information about help and treatment.

Emily Harr has been elected president for 1979-80. Other officers are Walter Wenczel, vice-president; Duncan Bethune, secretary; Jeanne P. Hunter, treasurer; and as trustees, Former Chief Justice Richard J. Hughes; Dr. John Belton; the Rev. David I. Fulton; Dean Ernest Gordon; E. Webb Harrison; the Rev. Barbara North; John R. Priholda; and Dr. Edwin D. Rogers.

The Mercer Council on Alcoholism is located at 548 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton. The telephone is 609-396-5874.

MEMBERS SOUGHT

By Twin W Squad. The Twin W First Aid Squad of West Windsor Township is conducting its annual membership drive.

There are three different Squad memberships available. An active member of the Twin W First Aid Squad is fully qualified in first aid. These volunteers undergo first aid training which enables them to answer emergency calls, transport patients to and from hospitals, stand by at community events and give community first aid demonstrations.

A Cadet member is between the ages of 14 and 18. From 14 to 16, he or she learns first aid procedures, participates in first aid competitions, becomes familiar with the various pieces of first aid equipment, participates in the subsidiary service of the First Aid Squad, but is not allowed to ride on first aid calls. At 16, the cadet may perform all the duties of an adult active first aid member under the supervision of a senior member.

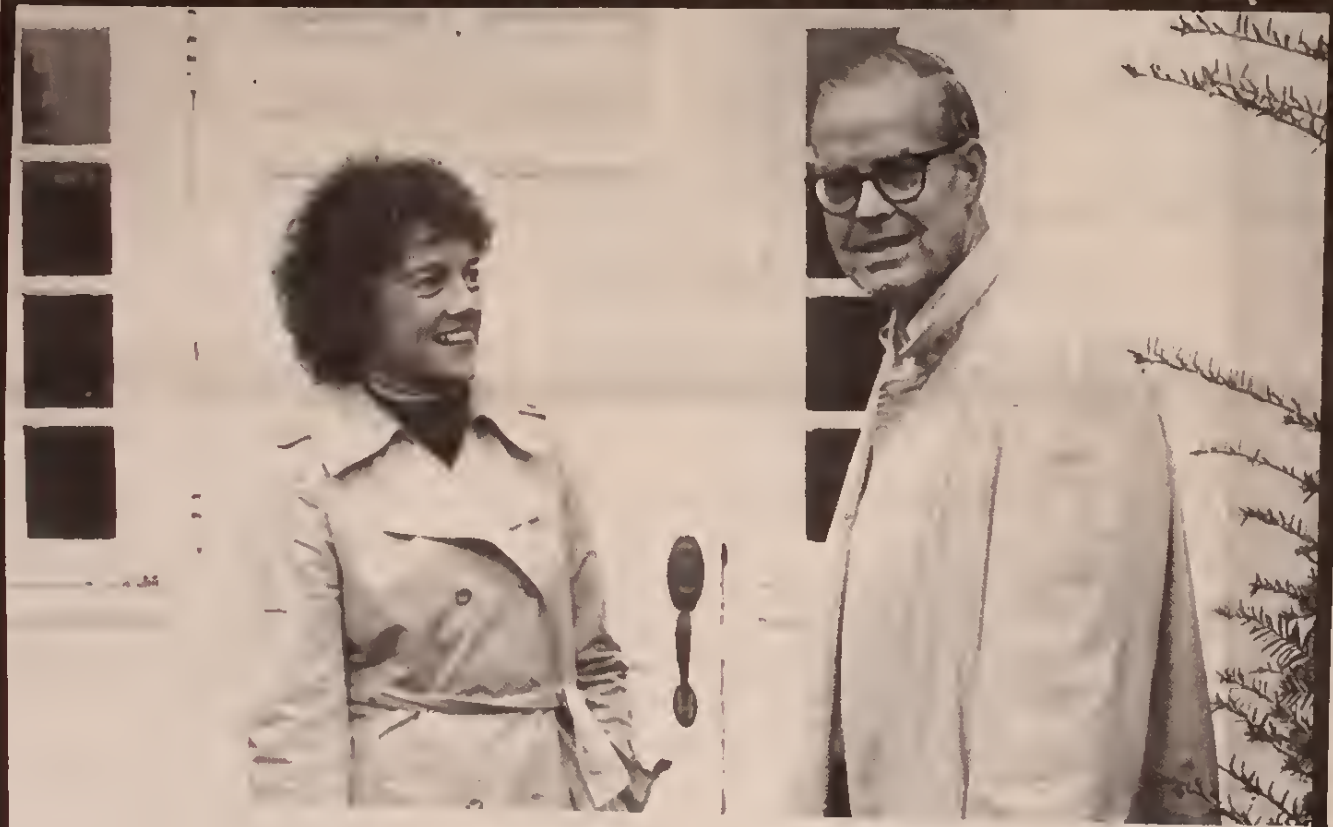

An Associate member of the Twin W First Aid Squad is one who wishes to aid the First Aid Squad in its service to the community through social and fund-raising activities but who does not wish to give first aid care.

Those interested in joining may call Barrie Summers at 799-1810, or Gordon Clayton 799-0582.

PARTY PLANNED

To Question Candidate. All Borough voters who are interested in meeting and questioning Rob McChesney, Democratic candidate for Borough mayor, are invited to 3 Evelyn Place on Sunday, November 4, from 3 to 5.

There will be no solicitation. Hostesses are Kay Kuhn and Jeannette Mirsky.

George Adriance

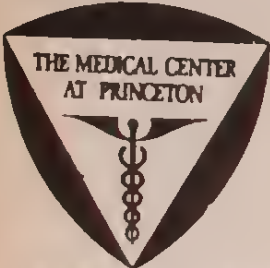

As pressure builds for development in the Township, we must proceed carefully to protect our most important asset — Princeton.

George Adriance is a long-time resident and a member of the Environmental Commission. He is the person to combine this background with sound financial experience. It is this kind of balance that Hugo Hoogenboom has given us, and that the Committee will continue to need to cope with the "caps" law and to put the long-awaited Master Plan into law.

I NEED HIS HELP — AND HE NEEDS YOURS. I HOPE YOU WILL JOIN ME IN VOTING FOR GEORGE ADRIANCE AND THEODORE KENNEDY NOV. 6.

Report on Role of Chapel in Campus Life Adopted by Trustees; Search for Successor to Dean Gordon, Retiring in June, Begins

Princeton University's board of trustees has adopted the Report of the Trustee Advisory Committee on the role of the University Chapel and its dean. The report was prepared after more than a year of deliberations and consultations by the committee, chaired by the Rt. Rev. John B. Coburn '36, Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts.

In preparing its report, the committee had available the report circulated last June by a faculty committee that had been established by President William G. Bowen in preparation for the retirement of the present dean of the Chapel, Ernest Gordon, at the end of the present academic year.

In presenting its report, the trustee committee paid tribute to Dean Gordon for his 25 years of service and for the manner in which he has, in the words of the report, "carried on the goodly heritage of his predecessors."

The principal elements of the report are:

- Strong reaffirmation of the desirability of university support for religious activities as, in the report's words, "an essential part of (Princeton's) educational purpose."

- Declaration that "oversight for the activities of all officially recognized religious bodies on the campus" is the primary role of the dean of the Chapel.

- Description of the personal qualifications that should be sought in a new dean of the Chapel, emphasizing (as had the faculty report) "deep religious faith," and noting that "while the history of Princeton and the nature of the university community today may make it more likely that the person chosen will be a Protestant Christian than a member of another tradition, (the trustees) do not view this as a necessary or inevitable outcome."

- Recommendation that there be established a University Committee on Religious Life to advise the dean of the Chapel.

- Reaffirmation of "the historic role of the Chapel as a place of Christian worship," together with a) a recommendation that there be formed a board for the Chapel congregation "to assume responsibility with its minister for its Christian mission on the campus," b) concurrence with the recommendation of the faculty report that the Chapel congregation "should be as self-supporting as possible," and c) a recommendation that "a final decision as to particular arrangements for the Chapel's worship and leadership await the selection of a new dean."

- Recommendation that steps be taken "to make more formal the relationship of denominational chaplains and the organizations they represent to each other and to the dean of the Chapel."

- General guidelines for the university's financial support of religious life that emphasize a) the campus-wide nature of those activities receiving general fund support, and b) the importance of specific worship communities relying chiefly on their own funding.

- Recommendation that official university ceremonies, including Opening Exercises and Baccalaureate, continue to be conducted in the Chapel but in such times and in such manner "as to be truly interfaith in character."

The trustees instructed the president to take steps as soon as possible to implement the report, and specifically to begin immediately the search process for the next dean of the Chapel. President Bowen has asked Thomas H. Wright '62, secretary of the University and university counsel, to coordinate the search, leading to a recommendation from the president to the trustees.

OBITUARIES

Milton G. White, 69, Eugene Higgins Professor of Physics, emeritus, at Princeton University died suddenly on October 16 while playing tennis. He lived at 31 Crestview Drive.

Prof. White was one of the nation's leaders in the development and use of research accelerators for physics research. The experimental work for his Ph.D. thesis, conducted at the University of California under the direction of E.O. Lawrence, was the first research in nuclear physics ever performed using a cyclotron. In 1935 he came to Princeton, where he designed and led the construction of the University's first cyclotron.

Beginning in 1940 he helped organize the Radiation Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass. Following the war, he returned to the Physics Department at Princeton and directed the construction of a new 18-million-volt cyclotron, used entirely for fundamental research in nuclear structure. In 1949 he was named Higgins Professor of Physics and shortly thereafter, while on a leave of absence, he was put in charge of the Brookhaven Cosmotron during its initial construction phase.

In the late 1950's he directed the design and subsequent construction of the Princeton-Pennsylvania three-billion volt Synchrotron and served as its director until it was decommissioned in the early '70s.

Prof. White served on the board of the Associated Universities Inc. Following his retirement in 1978 after 41 years on the Princeton faculty, he was elected president of the Universities Research Association, a consortium of 53 universities throughout the country which operates the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Batavia, Ill. He was serving in his position at the time of his death.

He was a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa, Gamma Alpha and the American Physical Society. He was on the board of the central Jersey Multiple Sclerosis Society. A native of California, he received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of California.

Surviving are his wife, the former Nancy Cushman Gryzbeck, whom he married in 1973 following the death of his first wife; two daughters, Ann Bruner and Margaret White, and a stepdaughter, Janice Bush.

Also surviving are two brothers, Alan and Irving White, and a sister, Mrs. Helen John, all of California, and a granddaughter.

A memorial service was held at the Unitarian Church. Contributions may be made to the Milton G. White Fund, Physics Department, Princeton University.

Dr. Margaret Hastings, retired Professor of Medieval English Law at Douglass College, died October 20 in an auto accident while on a visit to England. She was 69 years old and was living in South Hadley, Mass. while pursuing research into the life and times of Sir Thomas More. She lived in New Brunswick for 30 years.

Dr. Hastings was born in Springfield, Mass. and was educated at Mount Holyoke and Bryn Mawr Colleges. She joined the Douglass faculty in 1946, rising to the rank of full professor in 1959, and retiring in 1975.

She was the author of classic texts on 15th Century English law and on Medieval European Society. She was the recipient of Guggenheim and Fulbright fellowships and held the first visiting fellowship in medieval history at Girton College, Cambridge. She received awards from Douglass College and an honorary degree in 1976 from Mount Holyoke College.

She was a member of the American Association of University Women, The Mediaeval Academy of America, The American Historical Association, The Selden Society (Legal History Society) and the Appalachian Mountain Club.

She is survived by three sisters; Elizabeth Stephenson of Ridge, N.Y., Alice Gaylor of East Haddam, Conn., Jean Lovejoy of San Raphael, Calif. and a brother, Alan Hastings of Beaumont, Tex., and a nephew, Dr. James Hastings of Princeton.

Memorial contributions may be sent either to Douglass or to Mount Holyoke College.

Mrs. Esther Wiberg Strazza, 76, of Upper Montclair, died October 21 in Mountinside Hospital, Glen Ridge. A son, Richard W., of Princeton is among her survivors.

A memorial service was held in Union Congregational church in Upper Montclair. Contributions may be made to Union Congregational Church or the American Diabetes Association.

Carl W. Smith, 64, of 22 West Broad Street, Hopewell, died October 17 in Mercer Medical Center, Trenton.

Mr. Smith was a lifelong resident of Hopewell. He was a retired butcher, having been employed by the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. He was a charter member of the Hopewell Ambulance Corps and was past president of the Foster Parents Club of the New Jersey Children's Home Society, Trenton.

Adult School Completes 40 Years of Service; Its Direction by Volunteers Makes It Unique

The Adult School marked its 40th anniversary with a wine and cheese party Saturday for all past and present committee members and many of its long-time teachers.

It was the first time that this volunteer board had paused long enough in its work of devising courses, finding teachers, publicizing offerings and attending to registration and schedules to hold any kind of social occasion. This one was a well deserved pat-on-the-back for a remarkably successful community-wide enterprise.

The unique aspect of the Princeton Adult School, pointed out by both Mary Jane Fleming, current chairman, and Dorothy Thomas, a former chairman and board member "ex officio" in honor of her 22 years on the board, is that it is an entirely self-sustaining volunteer effort.

Unlike nearly every other adult school in the state, it is not run by the board of education with an adult education director provided by the state.

To be sure, the Princeton Adult School has depended on the largesse of the Borough, and later Regional, School Board in providing, free of charge, the facilities, utilities and janitorial service of the Nassau Street School in the early days, and the High School since 1957. But committee members -- a high-calibre, hard-working and congenial group, according to Mrs. Thomas -- always felt they would have greater freedom, and could offer courses of greater breadth and depth as befitting the community, if the school remained independent.

Called Leisure School initially. The Adult School began in 1939 as the Princeton Leisure School. Mrs. Louis Schleifer, wife of the head of the Windsor News Service and mother of two daughters, Rita and Barbara, at Nassau Street School, approached the school principal, Mrs. Helen Brearley, and offered to do all the paper work if Mrs. Brearley would organize a committee and get people to teach courses on a variety of subjects. The success of the venture was assured from the start by the whole-hearted cooperation of B. Woodhull Davis, then superintendent of schools.

REMINISCING: Dorothy Thomas (left) and Mary Jane Fleming recall the achievements and changes in the Princeton Adult School as a raunion of all past and present board members was planned to celebrate the School's 40 years as a community enterprise.

Records from 1941 show 21 courses offered on 10 Thursday evenings from January through March and note that more than 600 people had attended the sessions since the opening in 1939. Today there are 1,200 students enrolled in some 55 course offerings two nights a week, and the School has a fall as well as a spring session.

Princeton being Princeton, the Adult School not only served a varied clientele, but was able to draw on its unique resources at the University, Seminary, Institute for Advanced Study, and Choir College. The 1941 advisory council lists Harold W. Dodds, Charles R. Erdman Jr., Irving Mershon, James A. Perkins, William L. Tucker and John Finlay Williamson, among others. The course list included the mix of lectures on contemporary issues, seminars on timeless topics, and classes in crafts and leisure skills that continue to be its hallmark.

Thus, heading the list in 1941 was "Problems and Prospects of Democracy," a series of lectures by professors at Princeton University of the calibre of T.J. Wertenbaker, J. Douglas Brown, Allen Tate, E.S. Corwin and James A. Perkins. One could also take "The Enjoyment of Music," led by Prof. Roy Welch and Nathaniel Burt; Ballroom Dancing, taught by Charlotte Stockton Warfield; "Law for the Layman," Edgar S. Smith; "Body Technique," Mila Gibbons, or wood-working, sewing, photography or contract bridge.

Anticipating Trends. Jacquie Johnson, another committee member and former chairman, notes that historically the board showed remarkable foresight in suggesting courses on issues that were just about to break into the national consciousness. Examples are "Present Day Economic Problems," in which inflation was a topic, as it was again in the spring of 1969; "America Faces Russia," 1955; "African Challenge," 1960; "Way Out in Space," 1963; "China, Awakening Giant," 1965 and "Energy: Shortage Among Plenty," 1973.

These "block-buster" lectures that served as a drawing card are no longer given. As one board member puts it, people seem to want courses in which they can participate, either by discussion or in hand-on learning. Similarly, a course in millinery has given way to upholstery, social dancing to several classes in disco, and classical Arabic has joined the list of language offerings.

Languages have always been a strong part of the Adult School curriculum. In addition to French (four levels), Spanish, Italian and German (two each), introductory Latin is offered this fall. English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) was introduced in 1967 and continues to flourish, not in competition with, but complementary to, other ESOL programs in the community.

A milestone was the introduction of vocational courses in such things as boiler operation and food service preparation, which enabled those completing the courses to obtain certification and entree to better paying jobs. Another milestone was the introduction of the high school equivalency courses, which have since been taken over by the board of education.

Popular Courses. Distinguished and popular instructors included Prof. George F. Kennan, Dr. John A. Wheeler, Dr. Lyman Spitzer, the writer Caroline Gordon, the N.Y. Times jazz critic John S. Wilson, and Prof. emeritus Erling Dorf, whose course in geology "has been packing them in for 15 years," according to Mrs. Johnson. The late William W. Lockwood, Professor of Politics and International Affairs at Princeton, was the coordinator for several lecture series, as were Prof. John R. Martin and Prof. Gillett Griffin of the Art & Archaeology Department, and Prof. Marius Jansen of East Asian studies.

Folk guitar music has been regularly offered since 1963 and Chinese cooking since 1964. Mrs. Herman Archer has taught French for more than 20 consecutive years and this year is leading a French IV course composed of students who began in her French I four years ago.

Other longtime teachers are Mary Perpetua (typing and shorthand) and Frank Soda (Italian), both of the high school faculty; Stefan Martin, woodcut; Margaret K. Johnson, graphic arts; and Cynthia Gooding, folk singing. The late Charles A. Rogers gave a course on "Birds" for longer than anyone can remember and has been succeeded by Tom Southerland.

The same longevity and dedication characterizes many of the board members. Mrs. Anne B. Shepherd has served for more than 20 years and, as chairman of the curriculum committee, had much to do with shaping the

McCarter Theatre's 50th Anniversary Nears

DEDICATED TO McCARTER: The 1929 cornerstone of McCarter Theatre was re-dedicated last week in brief ceremonies starring a member of the cast of the first Triangle show given in the new building, the current president of Triangle, the president of McCarter's trustees and the theatre's new artistic director and managing director. Shown here are Allison Harris (managing director), Nagle Jackson (artistic director), A. Monroe Wade (in the first Triangle show and now a Triangle trustee) and Robert Brisk, Triangle's current president.

In a curtain-raiser for next February's celebration of the first performance in McCarter Theatre half a century ago, the theatre's 1929 cornerstone was re-dedicated October 14, 50 years to the day after it had been laid.
A replica of the original cornerstone was presented by Nagle Jackson, new artistic director of the theatre. It contains copies of items in the original cornerstone: the New York Times for October 14, 1929 (reporting a gas and oil shortage and a World Series game between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics); the 1928-29 catalogue of Princeton fund-raising efforts began for a new theatre.

Alexander Leitch's book "A Princeton Companion," relates that in June, 1927, between the acts of "Samarkand," the Triangle show of that year, Prof. Donald Clive Stuart came on stage and introduced Thomas N. McCarter, a member of the Princeton class of 1888. Prof. Stuart, regarded by many as the man who started performing drama at Princeton, not only introduced Mr. McCarter, he accepted from him a check for $250,000 toward a new theatre.
Triangle itself, through the efforts of B. Franklin Bunn of the Class of 1907, had already been doing some fund-raising. A year after Mr. McCarter's gift, therefore, Triangle had in hand some $450,000, D.K. Este Fisher Jr., of the Princeton Class of 1913, was retained as architect, and construction began. The theatre was built of native shale and red brick in a style sometimes described as Georgian with Gothic accents.

ceremonies were held the following night.
The history of McCarter, incidentally, was written for Mr. Leitch's book by William McCleery, who now reviews

University; a copy of the Princeton Alumni Weekly from 1929 (with an article on McCarter by the architect); programs and a list of the bylaws of Triangle Club; names of the builder and architect and some coins.

McCarter opened on February 21, 1930, with a special performance of the 40th Triangle Club show, "The Golden Dog."

A Munroe Wade, Triangle president who had a leading role in "The Golden Dog," remembers that opening night vividly.

HALLOWEEN EVENTS SET

By CTU. Creative Theatre Unlimited will hold a Halloween costume designing and making session Saturday from 1 to 4 at the CTU studio, 33 Mercer Street. The cost is $15 per child, materials included.

On Wednesday, October 31, from 1-2:30 children in grades 2-5 are invited to come in costume to celebrate "All Hallow's Eve." CTU says that on this evening the ancient pagans believed that their gods allowed the souls of the dead to return to their earthly homes. They dressed up to protect themselves from these visitors.

The cost is $7.50.

Discount Tickets

You can buy two tickets for the price of one if you attend a McCarter performance during the first week of the run of the play, starting next Tuesday with the first preview of "All the Way Home." Your last chance for the two-fers will be the first Sunday evening of the play; in this case, that's Sunday, November 4.

You must buy your Early Bird specials in person at the McCarter box-office the day of the performance. None will be sold in advance or by mail or telephone.

Using the Early Bird system, a couple can see a play for as little as $4.50, says McCarter's managing director Alison Harris.

PINTER, TO OPEN

At Intime. "The Birthday Party," Harold Pinter's first full-length play, will open the 61st season for Theatre Intime on Thursday, November 8. Curtain-time in Murray Theatre (on the Princeton University campus) will be at 8. The play will run November 8-11 and 15-17.

In "The Birthday Party," the man who is the focus of the play is visited by two sinister figures. "The Birthday Party" that ensues is both comic and horrifying, symbolic of the unknown that lurks behind the details of everyday life. Christopher Baumer will direct.

In December, Theatre Intime will present Alan Ayckbourn's comic trilogy, "The Norman Conquests"; in February, Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler"; in March, "A Day in the Death of Joe Egg" and, to conclude the season, Anouilh's "Antigone."

ROMANCE!

Comedy: A double bill of comedy and romance will fill the Playhouse screen starting this Thursday and continuing through Wednesday, October 31.

"Movie, Movie," actually two movies in one, presents an old-fashioned rags-to-riches boxing story in tandem with a spoof of all the 1930's backstage musicals. Director Stanley Donen and writer Larry Gelbart have put together every cliché they could find from the Hollywood of the 30's to produce a living parody.

The co-feature will be "A Little Romance," in which a pair of 13-year-olds meet and fall in love in Paris in the spring. The young lovers carry out a plan to run away to Venice, and are helped on their way by a pickpocket with

Report Finds Playhouse of Considerable Value But Cost of Acoustical Remodeling Is Unknown

The Playhouse is "a good hall" for various musical events, lectures, meetings or movies, provided an acoustical remodeling program — cost unknown — is undertaken.

That is the conclusion of Coffeen, Anderson & Associates, Inc., acoustics consultants retained by the Save the Playhouse Study Fund. The firm's final report was released this week.

As a result of technical and engineering studies made inside the Playhouse on September 7, Coffeen and Anderson recommend installation of a sound-reflecting ceiling for the stage, which would project out to approximately the first "break" in the existing ceiling.

The stage would have to be built out toward the auditorium to provide enough stage room and the new ceiling would extend beyond the downstage edge of the enlarged stage. The consultants also recommend sound-reflecting walls for the rear and sides of the stage.

About Noise Levels. In addition, the report suggests convex sound-reflecting and sound-diffusing shapes for the Playhouse's side walls and the rear walls of the rear seating area.

Although noise levels exceed criteria, the engineers found, noise could be reduced without difficulty by adding duct silencers. The air handling system of the theatre was originally designed for low-velocity air, which makes it easier, the engineers explain, to reduce noise levels.

A sound re-inforcement system with a central loudspeaker cluster above the stage and concealed behind a panel would be required. A second, smaller cluster could be used, the consultants suggest, to distribute sound to the rear seating area.

One of the theatre's advantages, the report says, is that it does not have a balcony. The rear seating section that audiences often refer to as the balcony is a desirable feature because the steeply-raked floor provides both good hearing and seeing.

To Consult University. Save the Playhouse members now plan to ask for a conference with Princeton University President William Bowen. They will suggest, according to James Thornton, that it might be difficult to ask alumni for $1 million to remodel 600-seat Alexander Hall and at the same time tear down the Playhouse with its 1,150 seats.

Before moving ahead to hire architects and obtain estimates, Mr. Thornton said, the group feels it needs some indication of interest on the part of the University.

"We don't think the University knew how good a thing they had in the Playhouse," Mr. Thornton remarked.

The group proposes that the Playhouse be leased to the Borough for $1 a year as a community facility. A private, non-profit foundation would modify and maintain the Playhouse as a supplementary facility. It would not compete with McCarter Theatre or other University entities.

Save the Playhouse has now committed itself to expenditures of $10,000 and is seeking funds. They contracted with Venturi and Rauch for $7,500 for the plan that shows how Palmer Square could be expanded, using the Playhouse, and they do not yet have a bill from Coffeen, Anderson. Contributions may be sent to S. Wyman Rolph III, 141 Meadowbrook Drive, Princeton.

A specialist in the German Baroque style of organ playing, Mr. Vogel will present a program of this literature. He is recognized as fourth-grade classroom, he draws, and lifts weights — up to 70 pounds with one hand.

A Community Park fifth-grader, Pen Reynolds, recently played The Invisible Man in a school radio play. He likes to draw, too, and he builds model airplanes and ships as well. He plays league soccer every Saturday.

Another soccer player — with plans to become the best soccer player in the world — is Douglas Parvin, now in the second grade at Maurice Hawk School in West Windsor. Last year, as a first-grader, he played the title role in a play called "The Kid."

Ben Farrell, in the third grade at Miss Mason's, was in a play called "The Fight," produced by Creative Theatre Unlimited. Matthew Weinstein, six years old and in the first grade at the Ethel McKnight School, likes gym and music best of all the subjects. He would like to be a baseball player when he grows up.

LET'S TALK ABOUT DUTCH ELM CONTROL... THIS IS THE TIME! with Sam deTuro Woodwinds Associates

Dutch Elm disease control is a year-round job, not confined merely to the leafy season, this is especially important to think about this year, following a particularly bad outbreak locally.

From the fall through winter is a very good time to practice careful "sanitation." This means the removal of all dead Elms, and the pruning and disposal of dead and dying limbs and branches from live Elms.

In community after community hit by Dutch Elm disease, a sound sanitation program has significantly reduced the loss of Elms. For example, some years ago right here in Princeton over a three year period, loss of Elms to the disease was halved—from 5.4 per 1,000 standing to 2.4.

Private property owners must cooperate with cities and towns that launch sanitation programs. Sometimes it is the tree owners who force officials into action. Whether a dead Elm stands on public or private property, it's immediate removal is paramount.

Often Dutch Elm disease strikes in early summer and progresses so quickly that the trees look bare. The tree owner delays removing the dead Elm until next spring, when it stands out like a sore thumb. By that time, it's later than you think Elm Bark Beetles, carriers of the Dutch Elm disease, having overwintered beneath the bark of the stricken tree, are on the wing, to infect healthy Elms, and so the disease spreads.

WOODWINDS warns homeowners that they must not retain the diseased wood, if you are absolutely sure you will burn sure you will burn such wood as firewood, fine. But just one infested log could mean the infection of a healthy Elm.

Removal of the dead tree or trees now will destroy both the source of infection and the beetle carriers. Similarly, Bark Beetles may be hibernating in dead and dying parts of live Elms. By pruning and disposing of these branches, the beetles are destroyed. This wood very likely contains the start of Dutch Elm disease infection. Timely removal can aid in preventing the spread of the disease throughout the tree.

Baroque Vocal and Chamber Music Pleasing In Sunday's Performance by Concert Royal

Sunday afternoon's performance at Alexander Hall by the Concert Royal brought a welcome visit by Princeton alumna soprano Ann Monoyios in a fine concert of Baroque vocal and chamber music for soprano, harpsichord, Baroque flute and viola da gamba.

The concert was dedicated to the memory of the eminent musicologist and Bach scholar Professor Arthur Mendel, whose recent death is keenly felt by several generations of musicians. Though my own experience of Professor Mendel was casual, it remains one of clarity, integrity and enthusiasm.

Ann Monoyios
An Alumna Returns

The concert began with a set of songs for soprano and continuo by Henry Purcell. Both "Musie for a While" and "Sweeter than Roses" were sung with wonderful flexibility by Ms. Monoyios. She has a real ease of production and accuracy in intonation that serve Baroque passage work beautifully.

The complaints I have about her performance actually find their source in that very same ease and accuracy. Even, easy flow, no matter how beautiful, can be monotonous. There were times during the afternoon when I wished for a little effort and struggle (real or feigned) or for the performances to take off into realms where the questions of effort and ease do not exist.

A Recurring Problem. I did get some effort in Sandra Miller's and James Richman's (flautist and harpsichordist respectively) performance of J. S. Bach's Sonata in A Major for flute and harpsichord. It was not, however, the dramatic effort I was looking for. Eighteenth century musicians often complained about the intonation problems of woodwinds. The revival of 18th-century instruments occasionally gives us a first-hand experience of the complaint's source.

Ms. Miller's performance tended to run on through section endings (especially in the Vivace), which resulted in the greying-out of Bach's harmonic frame. The only place where the harmonic play was really made something of was at the end of the Largo where Bach's continual reopening of the tonic and eventual move to the dominant, was made into something like the dramatic event it could have been. There was some realization of motivic play in the Allegro, but it was against so grey a backdrop that it gave me more a sense of inconsistency than of an opportunity taken.

The music of Rameau has been outside of my experience until now. The Concert Royal's performance of the Cantata "L'Impatience" for soprano, viola da gamba and harpsichord provided a happy introduction. Ms. Monoyios sang and was supported by her colleagues beautifully. This was the point in the afternoon that things did move beyond any question of effort. Mary Springfels' gamba playing was magnificent.

The Leclair Trio Sonata for flute, viola da gamba and harpsichord just never got off the ground. It was dutifully played and I could hear that something might be made of the piece but could not rise to the enthusiasm necessary to figure out what that might be. I experienced it as an agreeable greyness, very like my experience of the flute sonata but without the irritation of occasional inconsistency.

Dramatic Edge Missing. The set of Italian songs for soprano and continuo (Caccini's "Amarilli", Frescobaldi's "Cosi mi disprezzate" and Monteverdi's "Quel Sguardo sdegnosetto") were all beautifully sung but lacked dramatic edge. That is the substance of my complaint about ease of singing. It is not that I want a singer to be engaged in a struggle with her technique. But I do want a singer to be willing to forego evenness of timbre and apparent agility when it is appropriate to a dramatic situation. Actually what I am asking for is an expansion of technique to include the appropriate use of those timbres normally thought to be outside the canons of "good tone".

The set of three Arias for soprano, flute, and continuo by J.S. Bach which closed the concert were beautifully sung. Here I did not miss the dramatic edge. The same qualities that seemed inappropriate in the Purcell and Italian sets served the Bach wonderfully. I especially remember the combination of pizzicato gamba and harpsichord lute stop in "Mit zarten und vergnuten trieben." Old Bach really knew what he was doing.

NEW FALL CLASSICS

Shown at The Piccadilly. The Piccadilly has a tremendous selection of favorite fall classics with today's look of fashion. Shorter jackets, slim skirts and pants, lace-trimmed blouses, softly-styled dresses, warm sleepwear and many delightful accessories reflect current trends, and realistic prices add to their charm. Warm, personal service provided by Ruth Ann Basmajian and Judy Guldalian, the shop's owners, make shopping pleasure complete at The Piccadilly.

Separates. Wool jackets, skirts and pants in gray, or camel herringbone tweed, or camel, gray and off-white plaid can be purchased separately, to compensate for figure variations, and combined as two- or three-piece suits. Two-piece wool suits in camel or navy can also be purchased as separates and worn interchangeably with the tweeds and plaids. The jackets are styled as blazers or riding jackets and skirts are slim and slit, with the exception of a bias cut skirt in plaid.

Other pants and skirts offer coordinating options. Straight-legged pants with belt loops are shown in wool tweeds, solids and checks. The Piccadilly's famous reversible skirts show wool solids reversing to contrasting solids, or plaids and corduroys in reversible colors. Slim skirts in a modified dirndl style include a dill tweed with bright flecks of color, and a velveteen back wrap with self tie in rust or green.

Turtlenecks by Deans in polyester and cotton are available in colors that match their sweaters and in small flower prints. Skyr also makes turtlenecks in polyester and cotton in bright colors, snowflakes, and stripes and a cotton turtleneck with Spandex collar and cuffs in solid colors. Ah's turtlenecks are offered in a choice of enchanting mille-fleur designs. Sizes are medium and large; prices $13-$18.

Dressy blouses and shirts in washable blends include an elegant shirt with navy stripe variations on white, and a shirt made from crinkle cotton

FASHION'S LAYERED LOOK provides extra warmth on crisp, fall days, by combining basic styles, as shown by Judy Guldalian, partner at The Piccadilly. imported from Switzerland in a variety of colors. Lovely, feminine blouses are a shawl collared style in white or off-white, an ingenue look with lace trimmed button front and cuffs, and a tailored white tone-on-tone stripe with mandarin collar.

Classic shirts are Deans' new bird or animal prints of knitted polyester cotton and Sero's oxford cloth in pastels or stripes. The cherished Liberty print blouses in muted colors are offered in cotton and wool challis or 100 per cent cotton. Sizes 6-16 priced $19 and up.

Deans' sweaters in Shetland wool are available as a solid color pullover or a three-button style with contrasting neck trim, and a four-button Fair Isle in a solid color with contrasting yoke design. Pullovers and cardigans in flat knits or cable designs are shown in many colors and are ideal for monogramming. Sizes 32-40, $28 up. Deans' acrylic sweaters include a long-sleeved "U" neck, a flat knit cardigan, and a cable cardigan with covered buttons in many colors including the new warm brown. $16 up.

Dresses and Jumpers. Softly styled dresses at ease on the business scene and impressive at dinner, are a floral print on navy with gathered keyhole neckline and elasticized sleeves, and an abstract print on navy with mandarin neck and self tie, both spun polyester and washable.

The V-neck, side-wrap dress, which has become a classic, is shown in prints and solids by Lanz. Favorite jumpers are a gray flannel with scooped neck and slim skirt, in polyester and wool, and a back wrap style in a dark plaid in wool and nylon. Sizes 5 through 16.

Sleepwear. Warm cotton flannelette sleepwear by Lanz of Salzburg includes short or long nightshirts in plaids, floral stripes and prints, pajamas with eyelet-trimmed granny yoke tops, and granny gowns in a variety of signature prints with matching robes. Lanz also makes a beautiful gown and robe set in shamrock green polyester and cotton embroidered with pink roses and trimmed with white eyelet. A gown in ivory brushed nylon, perfect for a bride, has a satin yoke with a trapunto butterfly.

Accessories. The Piccadilly has handbags in many colors and styles from $14 up -- corduroys and wools with wooden dowel bar closings, reversible woolen handbags with bamboo handles, Bermuda handbags with covers in wool, wool felt and tri-colored corduroy, and leather-look bags with snake chain shoulder straps.

The selection of belts, $7 up, includes embroidered motifs on fabric with "D" ring closings, striped woven belts with leather trim, solid leather belts with brass buckles, colored leather-like strips to complete with ornamental gold clasps, and gold stretch belts in two widths. Woolen scarves imported from Scotland, in solid colors and authentic plaids, are labeled with their clan names, $15.

SCANDINAVIAN IMPORTS
At Nordcraft. Nordcraft is a sunny, hospitable shop with a fresh, uncluttered look in keeping with the clean-lined designs of its Scandinavian imports. Distinctive sterling silver jewelry, leather over-the-shoulder handbags, Kosta Boda Crystal, candle chandeliers, brushed woolen throws, decorative articles in natural wood, and table linens would be a pleasure to own and make charming gifts.

The shop also has a large selection of counted cross stitch in kits, including Christmas decorations and accessories for the home, and imported knitting yarn in an array of beautiful colors.

Jewelry. Refreshingly simple sterling silver jewelry from Finland includes pendants, rings and earrings in flower, snowflake and abstract designs, some set with sparkling crystal or spectrolite, a stone which shades from green to blue, and priced from $17.50.

Amber and sterling selections from Denmark are tear drop pendants, amber beads on a sterling silver chain, a ring with oval-shaped amber, and amber button earrings, from $14. A new group of sterling silver articles, made to be personalized with monograms or initials, includes letter openers, key rings, luggage tags, money clips, book marks and stick-pins, from $16 up, which should be ordered now for Christmas.

Handbags. Handsome leather handbags from Sweden with adjustable shoulder straps are natural cowhide, inside and out, in a variety of styles from $47 up. The two-compartment "Postman" is available in mini, medium and jumbo sizes; a spacious tote bag has a convenient outside envelope. Hunting bags in black or brown contain cartridge holders, handy for lipsticks or pens, $47.

CROSS STITCH FOR CHRISTMAS is shown in a colorful display at Nordicraft by Anne-Marie Woodrow, one of the shop's owners. Kitted advent calendars, table runners, bell pulls, tree decorations and Christmas cards can be made for gifts or decorations. The shop also has many new Scandinavian imports - jewelry, handbags and decorative accessories for the home.

Kosta Boda Crystal. Equisite hand-blown Swedish crystal in artistic shapes and designs comes from Kosta Boda, Sweden's oldest glassworks. "Kosta Party" is an informal group of tableware and serving accessories in a graceful leaf design. Elegance and formality characterize the long-stemmed candleholders and serving pieces in the shimmering, many-sided Octav pattern. Both groups are being offered at reduced prices for a limited time.

Candle Chandeliers. A romantic candle-light atmosphere can be created with the lovely candle chandeliers found at Nordicraft. Kosta Boda's silvery, hammered wrought iron chandelier has crystal candleholders which adapt to chunky candles or tapers.

Other chandeliers are brushed metal in a scrolled design and a graceful, black, hand-crafted wrought iron chandelier, which can be taken apart for storage, $47 up.

Wood in Pleasing Forms. Decorative accessories in wood with natural or painted finishes, beginning at $3.50, include a small lamp with a wooden base and shade of slatted wood, a key cabinet, round footed candleholders, a wreath or trivet made of interlocking pieces of wood, and trays, bowls, and boxes.

Fireplace bellows made of wood have hammered designs of brass or copper. Authentic copies of three-masted sailing vessels are wood with canvas sails.

Door harps, painted white, brown, blue, or red, with four metal strings that can be tuned, and wooden horses in graduated sizes, painted red or blue, come from Sweden.

Sturdy wooden toys for a young child - cars, planes and trucks, in two sizes, and wooden biting rings and rattles for babies, have natural non-toxic finishes. The colorful (non-wood) Danish animal mobiles that delight children are also available.

Appealing Accessories. Brushed woolen throws from Finland in vivid color combinations give double pleasure in warmth and beauty; 52" x 72", $95. Pierced metal lanterns from Sweden in brass, copper, or iron with a pewter finish, cast fascinating patterns of light when used as shades or candleholders, $12 up. Hand-woven table runners, striped with color, can be purchased in various lengths, or for $9.50 a yard.

Candle boxes with arrangements of candles and dried flowers are attractive table decorations for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Christmas cards and stationary show charming turn-of-the-century scenes by Swedish artist Carl Larsson. Heart-decorated frosty glass salad bowls, $4.50 and $14, clear glass pitchers, $11 and beer mugs, $3.80 are also appealing accessories for the holidays.

Counted Cross Stitch. Nordicraft has more than 350 of its own counted cross stitch designs, most of them artistic expressions of Elsa Granade, one of the shop's three owners, and several thousand from Sweden or Denmark, all sold in kits.

Christmas decorations that can still be made in time for the holidays include Advent calendars, bell pulls, table runners, inserts for windowed Christmas cards, or tree decorations. The shop also has linen cloth by the yard and Danish flower thread, Swedish linen floss, and six-stranded DMC cotton for those who prefer to design their own.

Knitting Wools. Norwegian yarns in two weights are offered in an unusually wide range of colors. "Saba," a lightweight acrylic and mohair yarn in soft pastels, is ideal for sweaters, hats and scarves in lacy or pointelle designs, and "Triplex" 100 percent wool in clear, primary colors is used for plain or patterned Norwegian ski sweaters. Patterns geared to the type of yarn can be purchased individually, rather than by the book.

Nordicraft owned by Anne-Marie Woodrow, Elsa Granade and Berit Marshall, is 356 Nassau Street. Store hours are 10-5:30 Monday through Saturday.

Here's one hard to believe ... Although Vince Lombardi was considered one of the most successful football coaches of all-time, there's an amazing total of 13 other coaches who won more National Football League games than Lombardi. It's a little-known fact that Lombardi had a relatively short coaching career, and won only 96 regular season games in his entire career. Many less-famous coaches like Buddy Parker and Sid Gillman won more NFL games than Lombardi did.

Nebraska holds an interesting college football attendance record ... According to the NCAA, Nebraska is the only school that's ever had a capacity crowd in their home stadium for 100 consecutive games ... Nebraska started their streak Oct. 6, 1962 and reached their 100th consecutive sellout Nov. 18, 1978.

Here's tricky football question many fans miss ... On a forward pass, how many eligible receivers are there? ... Answer: in pro football, 16; in college, 17 ... All 11 defensive players are defined in the rules as eligible receivers. On the offensive team, the 2 men at the ends of the line, and all 4 backs are allowed to catch a pass, although the pros do not allow the quarterback, when he lines up behind center, to do so.

Princeton Football Team, Badly Outplayed By Colgate, in 'Must-Win' Game at Harvard

MAN WITH A PROBLEM: Princeton quarterback Steve Reynolds, beset with a 5-for-18 day passing, had trouble too when he tried to run against Colgate. When Tigers were upset, 17-6, their record dropped below the .500 mark again, to 2-3.

(Bill Allen Photo)

Plagued with puzzling inconsistency after it has played better than half its games, Princeton heads for Cambridge and Harvard Saturday with its disappointed followers aware that if the Tigers cannot handle this strictly sub-par Crimson eleven, another season of losing football will be a virtual certainty. The unexpected 17-6 loss to a young Colgate team Saturday lowered the Orange and Black's record to 2-3, and even if it beats Harvard and then Penn, a split with Yale and Cornell will be necessary to prop the final record above the long-elusive .500 mark.

Princeton's problem is clear-cut in that its scope is considerable in dimensions, but elusive because the reasons for it are difficult to discern. The magnitude of all that was wrong with the Tigers at the end of the Colgate game was reflected by the fact that rarely has a team which lost by the relatively small margin of 11 points been so thoroughly outplayed.

Almost from start to finish on the sun-splashed afternoon, the losers found their offense completely shut down by an opponent which had yielded an average of 22 points in its first five games. Compounding that problem was the inability of the defense to stop the crunching sweeps of the Wing-T, decipher properly the bootlegs or the double reverses, or handle the passing of the alternating Colgate quarterbacks. The result was 402 yards in offense for the winners, exactly double that of the home team, and a Princeton loss to an opponent it had defeated during a mediocre season last year.

The most total turn-around from the previous week's bright performance against Columbia was debited to quarterback Steve Reynolds. Of 18 passes he threw, a mere five were completed and one of two interceptions set up the victors' final touchdown. While a couple of his aerials that should have been caught were not, he was generally either wide of the mark or too high, with much of his trouble caused by running out of the pocket when he ran out of patience. If Reynolds doesn't go, the Tigers don't.

Line Play Ineffective. There was a suspicion even during the one-sided conquest of Columbia that much of the yardage Crissy and Larry van Pelt were gaining they

Tigers' poor showing, he singled out the lack of cohesive blocking by the line ("We simply weren't working on it together") and the fact that not one of four Colgate fumbles was recovered by his team. "When you see the ball lying free that often," he remarked in subdued tones, "you know something is very wrong."

After a scoreless first half, Colgate drove 67 yards in 13 plays for its first TD and came close to another three minutes later, when defensive back Henry Milligan took an end zone pass out of the arms of the intended receiver. Milligan had come in two plays earlier to replace the injured Dan Bennowitz, who went off on a stretcher but suffered no serious effects from a head-on tackle.

Princeton Seeks $700,000 to Endow
 Position of Head Basketball Coach

The initiation of a funding drive to endow the position of head basketball coach at Princeton has been announced by President William G. Bowen.

The $700,000 fund will be known as the Franklin C. Cappon Endowment. Honoring a former basketball coach at Princeton who served the university for 23 years until his death in 1961, it will make possible the first endowed head coach position at Princeton.

In announcing the establishment of the fund, Bowen commented that "Princeton has a long tradition of excellence in intercollegiate athletics. The role of head coach is one of major importance and responsibility, and we are determined to seek the funds necessary to endow these positions in perpetuity. Endowed head coaching positions not only honor the holder of the position and testify to the important place of athletics at Princeton, but also create enduring memorials to the ideals and generosity of their donors."

To date gifts totaling $128,675 have been received for the fund. These gifts came to the university through Robert H.B. Baldwin of the Class of 1942 to honor the memory of two of his classmates, Dewey F. Bartlett and Richard H. Mayo. Bartlett, Mayo and Baldwin played basketball together for four years and in 1942 were members of the Princeton team that tied for the Ivy League title. Bartlett, a former United States senator and governor of Oklahoma, died last year of lung cancer.

The dean of Ivy League coaches, "Cappy" Cappon was one of the most popular and successful coaches in Princeton athletic history. He compiled an enviable record in Princeton basketball, winning five Ivy League championships. He served as president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and was a member of the Helms National Basketball Hall of Fame.

yards) increased Colgate's margin and a fourth-quarter touchdown with 12 minutes left put the game out of reach. While the outcome hung in the balance, the only time Princeton managed to cross midfield was early in the third quarter, when the visitors were penalized for running into the kicker.

Late in the game, sophomore quarterback Bob Holly took over for Reynolds. Against something of a prevent defense deployed by Colgate reserves, he completed 10 of 13 passes for 99 yards and the six points that averted a shutout. A pass for a two-point conversion was slightly overthrown.

Holly's performance made him the heir apparent to Reynolds's job next year, but the Tiger co-captain isn't about to lose it off Saturday's poor performance. "You don't lose faith in your starter because he has a poor day," Navarro said, "but Holly's showing may mean we can use him more quickly if necessary in the future."

HARVARD 1-4
 Has Beaten Only Columbia. When Harvard opened its season with a 26-7 victory over Columbia, to which it had lost at Cambridge a year ago, the future looked bright. But quarterback Burke St. John limped off the field with a knee-ligament injury and three games later, against Cornell at Ithaca, Harvard was down to the sixth quarterback as they were listed on its mid-winter depth chart.

Two left college last spring, three others had been injured, and losses followed to U. Mass, B.U., Cornell and Dartmouth. In the 10-7 loss to the Green, however, St. John returned and the Tigers are hoping that Saturday will not be a repetition of their own defeats by Brown and Colgate when previously injured quarterbacks returned to beat them.

With all of their problems (Coach Joe Restic's multiflex offense needs a veteran quarterback more than any attack generated within the Ivy League), Harvard's backs have been able to average only 256 yards a game. St. John will go against the Tigers, with Paul Connors and Against Delbarton, Hun couldn't get anything going, Leete reported. "I don't know whether we can turn it around. The kids are down a little bit but I hope they can come back. They know we have to play another game this week."

Tom Bundschuh scored all three Delbarton touchdowns on runs of one, five and six yards, gaining 124 yards in 27 carries. It was the Green Wave's second victory in six starts.

As for Hun, its offense, which has scored only two touchdowns all season, failed one more. "We couldn't get it going, either running and passing," said Leete. All he could point to was the defensive play of Matt Roch and Dave Wheaton.

FUTURE NOT AS BRIGHT

For PDS Football Team. Its dreams of a New Jersey Prep League title dashed by a 34-7 thrashing by Wardlaw last Saturday, the Princeton Day football team is still hoping to return to early-season form this Friday against Germantown Friends.

This contest on the road will be followed a week from Friday by the season's finale against Morristown-Beard at home. It's almost a foregone conclusion that the Panthers

On to Vet Stadium

Ten-year-old Michael Hunninghake of 154 Dodds Lane, and 12-year-old Tom Newton of 22 Robin Drive, Skillman, triumphed in their age bracket in the Punt, Pass and Kick district competition held Saturday at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia. Each was competing against 11 other zone finalists.

Hunninghake and Newton, sponsored by Nassau-Conover Motor Company, thus will advance to the PP&K area competition to be held December 2 in Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. Should each survive, only the AFC-NFL division competition on December 16 stands in their way of competing in the national finals at Super Bowl XIV on January 20.

will take that one, thus insuring a winning season, but a 4-3-1 mark is something of a letdown after a 3-0 start.

Thus, the Blue and White will be shooting to finish at 5-2-1 when they meet Germantown this week. To do that, they'll need to shut down the Germantown passing attack, something they failed to do against Wardlaw.

Germantown has lost to Pennington and also to Academy of New Church, but its quarterback and receivers form a potent scoring combination. Its weakness appears to be on defense, which should help PDS put points on the board.

PDS Starts Well. For the better part of the first quarter Saturday, Princeton Day looked to be in control, but that's not a very long time, and shortly thereafter Wardlaw turned things completely around.

On the first play from scrimmage after the opening kickoff, quarterback Jeff Freda found John Denny open for a 38-yard reception that carried to the home team's 23. Aided by a five-yard penalty, PDS took the ball in from there with Billy Haynes scoring on a one-yard run. Newell Thompson's extra point was good and PDS owned a 7-0 lead. Unfortunately, that was it for the afternoon.

Wardlaw was stopped on its first series, but PDS also had to punt. When Wardlaw got the ball back, it marched down field for the tying score, which came on a 30-yard pass. It also passed for a two-point conversion to lead 8-7.

The momentum changed very quickly when Wardlaw found it could pass almost at will against a weak PDS start, but could easily reinjure himself.

The Blue and White still retains a mathematical chance of winning the Prep "B" championship, but that's all it is.

SOCCER LEAD HELD

By Bridge Auto Body. In games last week in the Youth League of the Princeton Soccer Association, Bridge Auto Body maintained its lead with a 2-1 win over Princeton Caterers. Matt Newton and Michael Graves scored for the victors. They were aided by a fine performance in goal by John Wyckoff and the defensive play of Mark Patullo.

J. Hamilton Textiles shut out New Jersey National Bank, 2-0 on goals by Keith O'Shaughnessy and Henry Rollmann. L. C. Bowers remained tied with Textiles for third place after defeating Stewardson - Dougherty, 5-2. Britt Eaton, Billy Kearney, Lambros Xethalis and Steven Shaff all scored for Bowers, while Jason Flohr and Ethan Penn tallied for the losers.

Grover Lumber defeated the Nassau Inn, 3-1, on goals by Andy Brennan, Matt Braphy and Richard Webb. Brandon Jones scored for Nassau Inn.

"We'll be working on pass defense this week," Walker commented. Munroe's status for Friday's game is uncertain. He might be able to

Little Tigers' Mistakes Cost 15-14 Defeat by West Windsor; Winless McCorristin Coming Here Saturday with 0-26 Streak

"How many ways can you give away a game?" asked Bill Cirullo, assistant coach who calls the plays for the Princeton High School football team.

One way, the Little Tigers found out, is to bobble the snap for an attempted field goal with the ball sitting on the five and less than two minutes to play. That final PHS error assured a 15-14 West Windsor victory last week, and precipitated Cirullo's anguished question.

Played on a beautiful Indian Summer day, the game was one the Little Tigers wanted badly. Twice they held the lead. It was a game that one could argue the Little Tigers gave away, rather than one the Pirates won.

The stark one-point margin added up to Princeton's third straight loss to West Windsor, and a must-win situation in its remaining three league games if it hopes to remain a contender in the Colonial Valley Conference.

McCorristin Here Saturday. If there is one team on the PHS schedule over which PHS should rate a decided favorite, it is Saturday's opponent, McCorristin. Kickoff time here is 1:30. The former St. Anthony's, McCorristin has not won in its last 26 attempts.

Last week, the Iron Mikes were mauled 39-8 by Steinert.

2-POINT PLAY = 1-POINT WIN: West Windsor quarterback Bill Schwing (15) falls over goal line on an option play for a two-point conversion that earned the Pirates a 15-14 victory over PHS. Judd Petrone of PHS is parallel to Schwing on the ground.

Three Spartan TDs were called back, which helped keep the score from ballooning. When McCorristin scored in the last 38 seconds against the Steinert reserves, it marked the first time it had crossed the 50-yard line.

That McCorristin lacks a potent offensive is obvious. That some weekend the Iron Mikes are going to rise up and upset a favored team is inevitable.

PHS coach Jim Beachell will be on guard that it won't be against Princeton. He remembers, as do others following the Iron Mike saga of frustration, that the last time the Mikes won was three years ago when they defeated ... Princeton High.

Although West Windsor entered its game against Princeton with a fine passing quarterback in Bill Schwing, the Pirates were content to run straight at the visiting Little Tigers most of the afternoon.

Mel Cote rushed for 123 yards and one touchdown for WW. Paul Miles, Princeton's outstanding runner, stopped cold in the first half by the keying WW line, finished with 108 yards in 23 carries and two touchdowns. He scored all 14 PHS points and leads the county race in individual scoring.

"We didn't want to pass when we have a back like Miles," said PHS coach Jim Beachell. Ironically, it was key passes that largely determined the outcome of the game.

Spectacular Catch by Adams. The first came on the third play of an 89-yard drive that began with a recovery of a Pirate fumble by Brian Varvel. Dave Dinella, who had one completion and an interception in six previous attempts, arched the ball downfield to Mark Adams cutting across the middle. Adams made a spectacular over-the-shoulder grab for a 42-yard gain.

From here, Miles took over, getting a first down on the 21 and then racing 20 yards to the one-foot line. After Miles dove over for the score, Steve Budd's try for the extra point was low and to the right.

Then in the third period after PHS stopped the Pirates on a fourth-and-one situation -- Frank Whittaker making the tackle -- PHS turned the ball over when Miles fumbled, and WW covered it on the 19.

The Pirates scored in five plays, Cote bursting over off tackle from three yards out. Schwing's extra-point kick was true and the home team led 7-6.

PHS struck right back, marching 72 yards in five plays. "It didn't take them long to get that one," said a WW follower.

The big plays were a 27-yard gain by Miles and a fine 18-yard keeper by Dinella sandwiched around a Pirate clipping penalty. Miles got the final eight, going off tackle standing up and then ran the PAT over to give Princeton a 7-point bulge.

The Turning Point. WW soon found itself in a hole, following another clipping penalty as it tried to fight back. Then came what WW coach Hex Walker called the turning point of the game. It was a pass.

On a third-and-15, Schwing lofted the ball downfield to Pete Bahr. PHS defender Judd Petrone had it in his sight all the way. Both players went up for the ball. Both came down with it. Somehow Bahr managed to wrestle the ball from Petrone's hands. "Both had it," agreed Beachell. "Bahr just had the intensity to hang in there."

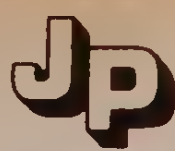

The play covered 35 yards, when Ben Navarro was detected roughing the passer on the same play, the Pirates had covered half the field in one play to the PHS 25. "You can't give up 50 yards on one play and expect to win football games," said Beachell.

After Cote had gained a first down on the ten, PHS held for three plays. On a fourth-and-three, Schwing took one step to his left and then scored right through the middle of the PHS line on a keeper.

Would Walker go for the tie or a win? He gambled and sent Schwing wide on an option play. Schwing kept running until he had fallen across the goal line.

There was one more key pass to come in the closing minutes. Dinella hooked up with Petrone for a beauty that carried 41 yards. After the officials had marched off a roughing-the-passer penalty, PHS had the ball on the Pirate 11.

Three carries, two by Miles, brought PHS to the 5. Not wanting to risk a fumble, and confident in Budd's ability to kick it through, Beachell opted for a field goal.

"Budd's a good kicker. We have four guys who can put the ball through from that distance," said Beachell. "I felt we could make it. We've practiced it but you can't count on a little bumble."

The "bumble" was Adams's failure to handle the snap. would Budd's kick have been good and given PHS a dramatic win? It is a question for which the frustrated fans of PHS will never have an answer.

PHS WINS TWO

In Girls Soccer. Victories over Montgomery and West Windsor last week enabled the Princeton High School girls soccer team to run its overall record to 8-4. The Little Tigers are 5-1 in the Colonial Valley Conference league.

Against Montgomery, PHS took eight times as many shots on goal as the losers, enjoying a 40-5 margin. Two went in as Sue Mooney and Nora Oates scored.

The previous day, led by Mooney's three goals, PHS defeated West Windsor, 5-1. Oates and Samantha Sparks also scored for the Little Tigers, who outshot the Pirates, 26-4. Goalie Claire Callahan had six saves. Theresa Mangone scored for West Windsor.

FRESHMEN UNBEATEN

In PHS Football. The Princeton High School freshman football team remained unbeaten and on top in the CVC league last week with a 16-0 shutout of West Windsor.

A 45-yard pass from wingback Jerry Ingram to Ken McKellar accounted for the Little Tigers's first score.

and PHS got another six on Stephan Fletcher's 40-yard return of an interception. Ken Varvel added four on a 42-yard field goal and an extra point.

Standouts on the PHS defense, which has held its last three opponents scoreless, were linebackers Scott Gabrielsen with eight tackles and Kyle Stevens with four. Willie Whittaker contributed a key interception for the victors.

PANTHERS WIN TWO

In Soccer. More than halfway through the season, the sun is beginning to shine on the Princeton Day soccer team in more ways than one, and the Panthers are turning things around from their poor start.

Through its first nine games, PDS was either losing or struggling for a tie when it wasn't rained out. Four of the first nine fell victim to the wet weather earlier this month, only one has been made up. Of those that were played, PDS could win just one, while losing three and tying two.

However, the sun came out last week, and the Blue and White responded with a pair of victories over Montgomery and Wardlaw to even its record at 3-3-2. Coach John Jameson thinks his team has really started to jell, and should be playing a lot better in future contests. It's not a moment too soon.

The seeding committee for the postseason tournament will meet Thursday night, and Jameson is hoping for a spot in the first four to get the home field advantage at least for the first game. Undefeated Pennington will get the top spot. With its record PDS will probably fall third or fourth.

The Rutgers Prep contest this Wednesday will have direct bearing on the seeding. Both PDS and Rutgers Prep are "B" schools and will be involved in the tournament. That game will be away, and Friday PDS will play at home against Newark Academy. The regular season ends the following week against Lawrenceville and Pennington, but a make-up with Peddie will probably be scheduled.

After a fine performance in a losing effort against Ewing, the Panthers came out flat for three periods against Montgomery last Wednesday. The visitors managed to take a 1-0 lead into the fourth quarter before PDS came alive. Immediately after a Princeton Day player was ejected from the game for using obscene language, the Panthers scored the tying and winning goals.

The first came when Jono

Rush lifted an indirect free kick to Steve Pagano, who headed the ball past the Montgomery goalie. A few minutes later Howie Powers took the ball up the right side, passed to Tom von Oehsen, who dribbled by his man and found Billy Ross alone about 18 yards out. Ross drilled the ball along the ground into the corner of the net for the game winner.

Saturday against Wardlaw, the Panthers played excellent soccer all game long, but still could not score until the final period. They took 31 shots, and had one goal called back because of an offsides penalty, but it was a mistake by a Wardlaw defender that finally allowed the first goal.

Sweeperback Sam Woodworth boomed a free kick from deep in PDS territory, which the Wardlaw fullback misjudged. It went over his head and Phil Ferrante took the ball from there and chipped an easy shot over the Wardlaw goalie, who committed himself too early. Wardlaw applied pressure for the next few minutes, but PDS came up with two insurance tallies near the end.

The first came off the foot of von Oehsen on a pass from Ross, and the other with just 10 seconds remaining when Jim Laughlin knocked in the rebound of a shot by von Oehsen.

NASSAU-CONOVER VICTOR

In Midget Football. Nassau-Conover capitalized on two big offensive plays and strong defense to edge Princeton Fuel Oil, 6-0, in the battle of the unbeaten in the Princeton Midget Football League senior division. A halfback pass from Jason Petrone to Albino Nini carried for a 50-yard gain to the Fuel Oil 15. On the next play halfback Eddie Rice took a handoff and raced into the end zone.

Fuel Oil mounted its biggest threat when Elliott Liverman took a Conover punt and returned it 50 yards to the Conover 20. Fine defensive play by Mark Chamberlin, Randy Freeman, Albino Nini and Jeff Guest, however, held Fuel Oil on the next series of downs.

Oil kept hammering away at the Nassau Conover line on runs by Jerry Ellis (57 yards) and Peter Ross (35 yards). Although the second half was played almost entirely in Nassau Conover territory, the Conover defense continued to come up with the big play.

Fuel Oil's defense was also very effective as Tom Haggerty made more than a third of his teams tackles. Tony Alexander, Peter Cook, Jerry Ellis, Elliott Liverman, Junior Division. Mengel-McCabe remained unbeaten in the Junior Division with a 19-0 victory over Hilton Realty.

The victors rushed for over 100 yards as Scott Fisher carried the ball for long runs on several occasions. Fisher was also on the receiving end of a Mike Taylor touchdown pass and threw for another TD to wide receiver Darius Young.

The Hilton offense was led by Marv Trotman, who scrambled for yardage on several plays and also completed key passes. Ralph Jackson and Scott Fletcher shared tackling honors for Hilton while Fisher, Ian Davis and Chris McCabe led Mengel-McCabe in tackles.

Travel Planning Associates rallied behind a goal-line stand late in the first half to march 60 yards in seven plays for the game's only score against the Lions. Matt Pope, Bob Sheehan, Tim Best, Darryl Hemingway and Danny Brandt all contributed to stopping the Lions on the one yard line.

TPA's score came on a six yard run by flanker Tim Best, after Darryl Hemingway had carried the ball four times for 30 yards. TPA quarterback Tony Rosenthal passed to tight end Chris Goodyear for the extra point.

The Lions' defense was effective against the run as David and Mike Elliot combined for 15 of their team's 26 tackles against TPA. Offensive standouts for the Lions included Mike Elliot and Chris Ruyak, who combined on a 15-yard pass, and David Bush and Robert Boseley who did most of the rushing.

SEASON SLIPPING AWAY

For PHS Soccer Team. With increasing swiftness, the season is starting to unravel for the Princeton High School soccer team. And PHS coach Ed Beacham doesn't have an easy answer for the slide.

"I wish I could say this is the reason why we lost," said Beacham. "But I don't know what to say. We're just not tough enough."

Against visiting West Windsor Thursday, a team the Little Tigers had dispatched, 4-0, earlier in the season without any stress, Princeton High had a 2-0 lead at intermission. It maintained it throughout the third period, only to see the Pirates tie it in the final quarter and then go on to win when Lou Hutchinson beat PHS goalie Brent Robinson with 37 seconds left in the second five-minute overtime.

"We get two goals ahead - I think we've been ahead every game except the ones we've been shutout - but instead of getting tough, instead of getting another goal, we seem to lay back. We play too polite soccer," continued Beacham. "We don't go after balls up for grabs. The percentage of loose balls we get is very low. The other team begins to believe they can beat you to the ball and pretty soon the momentum swings the other way. It isn't long before the whole thing is turned around."

The loss is the third straight for the slumping Little Tigers and their second league setback in a row. Instead of gaining on its league rival, Lawrence, which was upset by McCorristin, PHS lost ground in the race.

Sophomore Peter Tevebaugh scored the game's first goal at 14:31 of the first period on an assist by Franz Celestin. It appeared as if the Little Tigers were headed for another routine win over West Windsor, which had won only once before this season, when Bruce Liffiton scored again early in the second period on an assist from Dave Young.

Goals, however, by the Pirates' Kip Kreutzert and Kevin Tighe tied the game and sent it into overtime. Tony Capacelli, a transfer student from Peddie, who honed his skills in England this summer, also excelled for the visitors in goal.

11 BOATS COMPETE

In Sunday Racing. Eleven sailboats entered Sunday's Carnegie Sailing Club racing. The winds were from the south, varying from five to ten knots.

In the Laser fleet, John Henderson of Princeton Junction won with five first places in seven races, followed by Peter Grosz and Wayne Jesser. In the Sidewinder fleet, Regina Pasche of Plainsboro was first with two first places in four races, followed by Ray Keim and John Carman.

In the Sunfish fleet, Walt Gibson of Princeton was first followed by Dan Mazzarella and Dick Jesser. The fall series will continue Sunday at 1:30. New members are welcome.

PHS GIRLS TIED

In Field Hockey. Last week, after a 1-0 victory over West Windsor on a goal by Courtney Hoff - a team the Princeton High School field hockey team was expected to handle easily - coach Joyce Jones remarked that "right now we're at the point of the season where we are starting to feel fatigue." Rainouts had forced PHS to play three games a week for the previous three weeks.

The Little Tigers must still have been feeling that fatigue Monday when Hightstown tied the Little Tigers 1-1. Barbara Rice had Princeton's only goal in the first half and the Rams tied it on a second-half goal by Julie Resig.

The tie was costly for Princeton. It dropped it into a first-place tie with Hopewell Valley in the Colonial Valley Conference. Overall, PHS is 10-1-2, while Hightstown has two wins, five losses and five ties.

In girls soccer, PHS breezed past Hightstown, 7-2, led by Sue Mooney's three goals. It was the Little Tigers ninth win in 13 starts.

In tennis, coach Bill Humes's team remained undefeated (11-0) with a 4½-½ victory over Hightstown. Muffy Ellis and Jennifer Albert of Hightstown split two sets in the number two singles to divide a point. PHS captured both doubles in straight sets, while Diane Aronovic was the most overpowering, winning the number three singles, 6-0, 6-0, from Jill Mayberg.

TENNIS TITLE WON

By PHS Girls. Its tenth victory without a loss was a big one for the Princeton High School girls tennis team.

When the Little Tigers defeated Rumson, 4-1, here Thursday, they won the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 2 state championship for the first time in three years. It marked the fourth time the two schools had faced each other in the CJ Group 2 final. The Little Tigers won their first meeting, Rumson won the next two years and now PHS has evened the score.

"They're two good teams," commented PHS coach Bill Humes. "We have a good rapport with each other. When you have two teams of equal ability, you learn to respect each other, which I feel is true in all sports."

PHS will next compete against the southern and northern Group 2 state champions to try to win the overall Group 2 state championship. The Little Tigers are just two victories away.

Against Rumson, top seeded PHS swept every match but the number one doubles. In singles play, Patty Dinella defeated Janet Walsh, 6-1, 6-0, Muffy Ellis defeated Sandy Neff, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2, and Diane Aronovic maintained her record of not having lost a team match in the past two years as she stopped Annette Hillary, 6-3, 2-6, 6-0, in the number three singles.

Liza Reed and Leah Cope topped Kelly Sheridan and Kathy Mussle, 7-5, 6-2 in the number two doubles to give Princeton its fourth point. Only in the number one doubles where Rumson, reported Humes, has not been beaten in 70 some matches, did the losers prevail. Sally Quinn and Bonnie Powers defeated Princeton's Julie Schwartz and Melanie Goldfeld, 6-1, 6-1.

Seventh-seeded Rumson had defeated Hopewell Valley to reach the finals, while PHS had blanked North Plainfield, 4-0.

The following day in a Colonial Valley Conference match, PHS edged West Windsor, 3-2, as Humes commented, "our depth held up." PHS won both doubles matches and Aronovic triumphed in the number three singles to give PHS the match.

FIRST PLACE CROWDED

In CVC Soccer League. One thing Princeton High Coach Ed Beacham likes to stress about the Colonial Valley Conference soccer league is its balance.

After games Monday, three of the league's seven teams were bunched in first place. Princeton, following a 3-2 victory over Hightstown, and McCorristin, after an equally close 2-1 decision over Hopewell Valley, were tied for the top spot with identical 5-3-1 marks for 11 points. Lawrence, one of the pre-season favorites, was upset in overtime by West Windsor, 3-2, a week after PHS had been upset in overtime by the same Pirate team. Lawrence is one point behind in the standings with a 5-3 record.

The game with visiting Hightstown saw the return to action of Ron Celestin, the team's scoring and field leader. PHS took a 3-0 lead, a pattern it has followed in most of its games, and then hung on as Hightstown rallied for two fourth-period goals.

Scoring for PHS were Ron Celestin, Bruce Liffiton and Franz Celestin. The Little Tigers are 8-5-1 overall, while Hightstown is 5-6-2.
